State Starts Sewage Disposal Plant Inspection

HEALTH BOARD ENGINEER HERE FOR CHECK-UP

Makes Survey of Operations Today, Accompanied by Mayor, Styert.

'BASICALLY ALL RIGHT'

State Wouldn't Have Approved Plans If It Wasn't, Says McDill on Arrival.

A check-up on equipment and operation of the Mansfield sewage disposal plan by the state health department began today, as Bruce M. McDill, assistant engineer in charge of sewage plants, from the state department, accompanied by Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service Director Tracy C. Styert, went to the plant to make a survey of the equipment and operations of the plant.

McDill, who is assistant to H. F. Waring, chief engineer of the state department of health, said that he had been over the plant several times since it began operating a year ago.

Watches Pumps, Tanks.

He said he would pay particular attention on this visit to the pumps and aeration tanks, where the chief trouble is reported to have been.

The pumps, of the non-clogging type have been clogging with solid sewage, it has been reported, and the aeration tank paddles are said not to function as intended under capacity load.

McDill said today before visiting the plant that "basically the plant is all right or the state department wouldn't have approved the plans in the beginning Most new plants develop minor troubles at first and it takes time to iron them out, and I am confident this can be done at the Mansfield plant."

George B. Sowers, Cleveland, the consulting engineer on the construction of the plant, was in Mansfield yesterday conferring with the mayor and safety director.

Final Payment Due.

The sewage disposal plant, which was constructed at a cost of $331,000, has been in operation a little less than a year. A final payment of $6,089, representing two per cent on the contract, is due Feb. 6, and the mayor indicated yesterday that payment of this would depend upon the decision of the state engineer after he has gone over the plant

Aurora Borealis Shows Off Again, London Terrified

LONDON—(AP)—It was not the end of the world It was not a new war It was not a fire.

It was only the Aurora Borealis—on the blink again—that kept firemen dashing about much of Europe into the early morning hours today.

The firemen couldn't do anything about the scientific phenomenon so they went home to bed, and left it to the scientists to explain to terrorized inhabitants.

By press, radio and telephone officials explained that the Aurora, rarely seen in southern or western Europe, was caused by an electrical disturbance on the sun's surface.

(They've been shooting off over sections of North America since Saturday.)

A brilliant cascade of red beams was streaked with ever-changing bands of orange, purple, green, blue and white—the first Aurora in western Europe since 1709, French scientists said.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Arrest of Police Detective Capt. Earle Kynette for the bombing of Harry Raymond, private investigator, was ordered today. Kynette's attorney, John Oliver, said the officer would surrender when the complaint was filed and a warrant issued.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said he believed he had definite evidence linking Kynette with the bombing and would ask $50,000 bond.

Snow Drifts Nearly Balk Grand Jury

But Farmer-Member Digs Through And Panel Avoids Recess.

Snow drifts on Monroe township roads nearly caused a recess today of the special Richland county grand jury investigating paroles, but the marooned juror, W. O Wiles, managed to dig his way out and the inquiry went on as scheduled.

Wiles this morning telephoned Assistant Attorney General George Hurley to say that drifts had made it impossible for him to drive to the reformatory, and Hurley announced that the jury would be recessed until tomorrow morning at least.

Digs His Way Out.

But shortly after 10:15 just as the other jurors were preparing to leave the reformatory, Wiles arrived He said he had dug a path through drifts around his home, and managed to get his car out. Hurley then reconvened the jury, and the taking of testimony was resumed.

Today seemed destined to be spent as yesterday was—looking into financial records which seemingly have nothing to do with paroles, thought it is the parole system that is supposed to be under investigation.

O F Garver, assistant superintendent of the reformatory was today's first witness. He was scheduled to be followed by Chief Clerk Ben F. Owen, who had been asked to bring in all financial records of the institution for the period between 1925 and 1938, going back more than 10 years.

Calls For Bank Records.

Hurley announced that the institution's bank records for the same period had been subpoenaed.

Assistant Attorney General Paul Hergenroeder, who has been away since Friday, rejoined Hurley here today, and was assisting in the presentation of evidence.

Yesterday afternoon the grand jury heard George J. J. McKay, Cuyahoga county embezzlement convict at London prison farm, tell about vocational training in penal institutions. Now librarian at London, he was connected with educational work among convicts at Sing Sing in New York while serving a term there.

Present in Mansfield yesterday while McKay testified was Willard Mielziener, an assistant Cuyahoga county prosecutor. Neither he nor Hurley would comment on the significance of Mielziener's presence here.

Another witness was Ira Culler, a former manager of the Farmers Equity Exchange. A predecessor of D. B. Peterson, who testified earlier yesterday, he was believed to have been questioned about transactions between the reformatory and the exchange.

DOOM GAG RULE

G. O. P. Senators Shy at Move to End Filibuster.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—An attempt to invoke cloture in the senate and stifle a filibuster now holding up legislation was doomed today when Minority Leader Charles L. McNary, R., Ore., announced he and virtually every other Republican senator would oppose it.

The attempt to invoke the gag rule was received by southern senators filibustering against the anti-lynch bill as proof that their obstructive tactics had won and that there would be no vote this session on the controversial measure. Their belief was shared generally in the senate.

McNary's announcement was believed to doom to defeat beyond any question the petition filed by Sen. M. M. Neely, D., W. Va., to put into effect the cumbersome senate cloture rule. A two-thirds majority is required to invoke cloture.

Old Man Winter moved to front and center of the news scene and these four pictures are the result of some of his wrath. At top, two fathers, indicated by arrows, have just succeeded in rescuing from icy waters of Pistakee bay, near Fox Lake, Ill., their sons, who plunged through the ice in an automobile. But death won. The boys, Louis Nelson, 9, and John Peyton, 6, died. An incident with a more fortunate ending is depicted at left center. Tiny, the dog, chased a gull out on the ice of Long Island sound. A girl, Nancy Whitmore, chased Tiny. She fell through the ice. Her sister, Jane, went after her and fell through the ice, too. Then Nelson Harding, shown in blankets, rescued all three Right center shows the ice-filled Rock river at Rockford, Ill., which overflowed and flooded sections of the town. DAVEY SIGNS RELIEF BILL

Approves Measure Making $4,000,000 Available For Needy In Ohio.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey signed into law today a measure appropriating about $4,000,000 for poor relief.

The act reallocates for poor relief admissions taxes of about $1,500,000 annually, levies a beverage tax of one-quarter cent for each six ounces for about $800,000, imposes an excise of .65 (sixty-five hundredths) of one per cent utility receipts for an estimated $1,600,000, and provides other minor levies

The revenue would be allocated to local communities on the basis of their average tax duplicates.

The governor called another conference of legislative leaders on a bill which would establish a state relief organization and deny aid to aliens who have not signified intention of becoming citizens. Cleveland relief officials have vigorously criticized the ban on needy aliens and the governor's advisers indicated he might veto the bill.

RIO DE JANEIRO —(AP)—Bruno Mussolini took stock today of his 3,233-mile flight from Dakar, French West Africa, and decided he and Col. Attilio Biseo had completed the "fastest long distance flight on record."

The 20-year-old son of Il Duce said he believed he and his brother pilot had broken at least two world marks when they landed their two tri-motored, bombing type planes here yesterday, ending the second leg of their 6,000-mile experimental and propaganda flight from Rome.

The flight from Dakar took 13 hours and 56 minutes.

NAMED HEAD OF RELIEF OFFICE

Nist, Former WPA Director, Appointed to County Post as 'Emergency Measure.'

Named acting relief director by the board of county commissioners, Atty. Earl Nist, Mansfield, today had taken over the supervision of direct relief activities in Richland county.

Appointed for an indefinite period and to serve "until the relief situation is cleared up," Nist takes over the duties of Miss Mildred Armstrong, who has been both relief supervisor and the county's agent for administering aid to dependent children under the Social Security act. She will devote most of her time to dependent children cases, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the county commissioners, said today.

Mitchell explained that demands on the relief office have become so great in recent weeks that Nist's appointment was purely "an emergency measure and an attempt to get the relief situation straightened out."

Nist was former WPA director

HEARS CARDOZO WANTS TO QUIT

Capital Told Roosevelt Wants Justice To Stay On Bench.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A usually well-informed authority said today the ailing Justice Cardoza had notified President Roosevelt informally of an intention to retire from the supreme court, but that the chief executive had urged him to remain.

There has been talk among his friends in congress of passing a special act to give him full retirement benefits. The New Yorker has served only since 1932 and so would not be eligible for retirement pay under the present law, which requires 10 years service.

Retirement rumors also have circulated about Justice Brandies and McReynolds.

U. S. to Start New Priming For Business

Industry, Not Labor Must Bear Losses, Roosevelt Says Of Wages.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt was prepared today to resume pump-priming federal spending to maintain national purchasing power against any general industrial wage reduction in the next five months.

He warned "those who believed in the profit system" that they should maintain wages and cut prices to expand markets for their goods.

Mr. Roosevelt contended in a press conference statement that price cutting would restore profits. But he insisted that if losses were to be suffered in meeting recession problems, the loss should be borne by management and stockholders of industry. He said to assess losses against workers would be "moral bankruptcy . . . Bankruptcy of sound business judgment."

Directed At Steel.

This warning was directed particularly at steel and to other mass production industries, in general. It came midway in a series of White House conferences with business leaders looking toward co-operative efforts to bolster business. Some observers believed industry and government would clash on the question of wages and prices.

The next good-will conference will be with small business men, about 500 of whom will meet early next week with Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper. After their conference with Roper, Mr. Roosevelt will receive a delegation of a dozen or so of the "little fellows" whose representatives on previous occasions have protested bitterly against the overwhelming competition of big or monopolistic business.

Return to big scale federal spending now would raise the national debt beyond the present $37,400,000 level and nullify immediate economy plans under which Mr. Roosevelt hopes to curtail deficits. The net deficit for this fiscal year so far amounts to approximately $775,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt's wage-price statement removed uncertainty existing since his housing message to the special session of congress in which he suggested that hourly wage scales were too high in the building trades and should be reduced. It is distinctly understood now, however, that Mr. Roosevelt did not intend that theory to extend beyond the

TWO FIRES HIT

Bucyrus Grocery, Downtown Building Damaged.

BUCYRUS—Fires last evening and early today destroyed a grocery store and damaged a downtown store building.

An overheated stove started a fire that destroyed the small frame building on Short street, occupied by the Ralph L Hinaman grocery last night. The fire, reported by neighbors, was beyond control when the fire department arrived. Fire Chief William Mader estimated the loss at $1,000.

Another fire in the Mader building, North Sandusky street, today caused damage estimated at $1,200. The cause of the fire, which apparently originated in a closet in the Jr. O. U. A M. lodge quarters on the second floor of the three-story building has not been determined

The fire department battled the blaze two and a half hours before it brought it under control.

WORST WINTER STORM BLOCKS COUNTY ROADS

3,000 Pupils Get Unexpected Holiday Because of Drifts; Mercury at 3 Above.

FIVE INCHES OF SNOW FALL

Storm Covers Most of Nation East of Rockies; Northern Michigan Hardest Hit.

TEMPERATURE READINGS

8 a. m.—6 above	11 a. m.—12 above
9 a. m.—8 above	12 noon—14 above

The winter's worst storm which spread over most of the nation east of the Rockies today paralyzed traffic in the Richland county area and forced most of the county's rural schools to close. Many roads in rural sections were impassable because of the huge drifts that resisted the efforts of county road maintenance crews.

Working in near-zero weather, state and county highway employes and Mansfield street maintenance workers battled a blizzard most of the night in an effort to keep roads and streets open.

One of Ohio's Coldest.

Approximately five inches of snow covered the ground today and the mercury in Mansfield skidded to an official three degrees above zero this morning to rank the city as one of the coldest spots in Ohio. Temperatures over the state ranged from two above at Springfield to 11 above at Cleveland.

Cloudy and continued cold weather was predicted for tonight, with clear skies and rising temperatures due Thursday, the state forecast said. Snow flurries may continue in parts of the state tonight.

All Richland county rural schools, except those in Madison township were closed at the request of Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, and County Engineer Howard C. Sword.

Hundreds of Pupils Absent.

About 3,000 pupils were affected by the order. Although Mansfield schools were open, A. H. Wood, attendance officer, said hundreds of pupils were absent. At the Bowman street school, which has an enrollment of about 800, there were 271 pupils absent, Wood said.

E. M. Garrison, superintendent of Bellville schools, said pupils there were dismissed early yesterday afternoon to permit the buses to take them home before the drifts blocked roads. He said schools would not re-open tomorrow "unless the roads are opened."

County Engineer Sword described the county's roads as "the worst in years."

The condition was aggravated, he said, by the warm weather

Roosevelt Given $1,000 Check As U. S. Tax Refund

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The treasury collected $1,029 too much in taxes from a person listed as "Franklin D. Roosevelt, Washington," and had to give it back.

Or perhaps Mr. Roosevelt made the mistake and paid the treasury too big an income tax.

At any rate, the $1,029 was part of $32,253,303 in tax refunds which thousands of individuals and firms received in the year ended June 30.

A list of refunds of $500 or more, sent to congress by the treasury, was made public today by the house expenditures committee.

The largest single check, for $1,458,100, went to Arthur Curtiss James, New York industrialist and financier The Equitable Life Assurance of New York got two which totaled $1,316,939.

The only other refund in the million-dollar class was $1,126,641 to the American Gas and Electric company and affiliated companies, also of New York.

Vast Westinghouse System That Turns Out 8,013 Different Products Described In Noted Magazine

18-Page Story in Fortune Touches on All Phases Of Its Operations.

Tells How Allen Was Given Job of Creating Unit in Mansfield.

"Imagine a company that undertakes to serve the United States Navy, utilities, the steelmakers, the automobile makers, the railroads, the oil drillers, the hospitals—and the matron who wants an electric roaster. Then you have imagined Westinghouse Electric."

This is the introduction to an 18-page story in the February issue of Fortune, national magazine, which came out today. The story, illustrated with several full page pictures of the type that have made the magazine famous, is a comprehensive survey of the great industry which has one of the largest plants in Mansfield.

The Westinghouse company, according to Fortune, grossed $206,000,000 for the year of 1937, which was 34 per cent above the gross of 1936, and only five per cent short of the 1929 gross of $216,000,000.

This figure refers to the entire company's work, including factories in 18 cities in six states. A comparison shows General Electric, admitted lord of the electrical equipment business, grossing $260,000,000 for 1937.

"For a short period in 1937 Westinghouse was actually embarrassed by the orders that came flooding in" according to Fortune "That was in March when orders booked (not to be confused with sales billed) amounted to $27,000,000, an all-time monthly high. But orders fell off 47 per cent from the first quarter to the last quarter of the year. Even with this recession Westinghouse had $63,000,000 worth of carry-over orders in its plants on

CHINA ORDERS BIG OFFENSIVE IN NORTHWEST

Guerrilla Fighters Sent Out to Block Shift of Japanese Troops to Hsuchow.

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—The Chinese high command has ordered a general offensive against Japanese by guerrilla fighters in the far northwest, Chinese sources said today.

It was intimated the offensive already had started in Suiyuan province, north of the great wall, and Chinese reported that guerrillas in Shensi province, immediately south of the wall, were cooperating.

The general offensive order was attributed to a desire to take advantage of the withdrawal of Japanese troops from some points in the northwest, and at the same time prevent further withdrawals of Japanese troops to strengthen the armies driving on Hsuchaw, the important railroad junction on the north-south Tientsin-Nanking line and the east-west Lunghai line in central China.

Make More Progress.

This new Chinese move was coincident with Chinese assertions that their men were operating with success against the Japanese on the Hsuchow front and in the Wuhu area, up the Yangtse from Nanking.

It was asserted that in the northwest, Chinese guerrillas in Shansi province, which is immediately eastward of Shensi, were within 20 miles of the important city of Tatung after capturing Lungwangmiao.

Chinese reported that in taking Lungwangmiao they drove the Japanese across the Wei river and that scores of Japanese troops drowned in trying to cross the river under a heavy machine gun fire.

North of Hsuchow on the Tientsin-Nanking railroad, the Chinese asserted that their men were driving in on Japanese van guards from three sides of Tsining.

In the Wuhu sector, Chinese asserted that fierce fighting was in progress on the Strategic heights outside Takwanshan. The Chinese admitted that Japanese artillery controlled the heights and was shelling Chinese vanguards heavily.

GRANTED STAY

Driver Faces Charge Friday of Ignoring Order.

C. E. Moore, R. F. D. 6, Mansfield, was granted a continuance of his case this morning in municipal court when he appeared before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch on a charge of driving a motor vehicle after revocation of his driver's livense.

Moore was arrested yesterday by Corp. Scott B. Radcliffe of the state highway patrol, upon complaint of Helen Wappner, whose address is the same as Moore's.

Moore had his license revoked for one year on Nov. 20 for driving while under the influence of liquor. In December 1935 he was arrested for the same offense after being involved in an auto accident, and at that time had his license revoked for a year, fined $100 and costs and given a 60-day jail sentence which was suspended on condition he pay the costs of the accident.

Judge Kalbfleisch continued the case until 9:30 a. m. Friday so that Moore could obtain an attorney.

Sweeper Stolen — An electric sweeper valued at $60 was stolen from the home of Glenn Mowry, 38 Parkway drive, yesterday afternoon during the absence of the family, Mowry told police.

A Farmer's Diary

January 25.

DURING the early morning about two inches of snow fell. The landscape had changed. The fields where small ponds were seen the night before looked like distant etchings. At noon the wind blew a gale from the northwest; by evening drifts were piled high beyond thickets and fences. The snow twisted and whirled on the smooth highway like graceful moving serpents.

The dog came swiftly from his kennel for his evening meal, gulped his food, and hurried back to his shelter. The cattle had to be driven from their stalls to the strawstack. There they stood with humped backs and feet close together, shivering. The horses as the doors were opened, shied at the entering swirl of snow. They jumped, kicked and bit each other as they neared the watering trough. When corn was thrown into their feeding lot, the hogs hurried from their steaming beds beneath the straw. The sheep with heavy coats of wool, stood about their trough bleating and stamping forefeet to emphasize the need of food. The cats gathered about the empty pan and waited for their meal of warm milk. The pigeons cooed from the eaves of the shed and watched with keen eye the grain that fell from the sheep trough.

It was a day to be early with the chores. A day for an extra log on the fire, a hot supper, a warm bed. What a delightful sense of well-being and security a man has, snug and warm by his fireside when the cold wind blows!

"Blow high, blow low, not all the snow
Could quench our hearth
fire's ruddy glow."

HELD TO JURY

MT. GILEAD — Bernard Blackledge, 32, of Mt. Gilead, was bound over to the county grand jury Tuesday afternoon when arraigned before J. P. Bennett, Gilead township justice of the peace, on charges of issuing worthless checks. Bond was fixed at $2,000 and he is being held in the county jail.

A former employe of the Hydraulic Press Manufacturing company here, Blackledge has been sought by county authorities for two weeks after warrants charging him with cashing checks totaling nearly $600 were sworn out by Mt. Gilead merchants.

STORM CLOSES RURAL SCHOOLS

Winter's Worst Blizzard Ties Up County Roads; 3,000 Pupils Get Holiday.

last week which softened the surfaces of earth and gravel roads and made it impossible in some places to get heavy snow plows and maintainers over the roads. The main routes across the county were reported open.

All available snow-fighting equipment in the state and county highway departments and the city's street maintenance force were pressed into service during the night and this morning. About 90 men were employed to battle drifts in the city and county.

In Mansfield, conditions were reported worst in the Woodland area where the strong wind piled snow into drifts across streets. County road officials said it was impossible to keep north and south secondary routes open, since drifts covered the roads in a few minutes after plows had cleared them.

County Escapes Accidents.

Both the city and county apparently were observing the rules of safety despite the suddenness with which the cold wave struck this area. There were no major accidents, and the Mansfield fire department reported at noon today that there had been no fires reported in the city since Saturday night.

One motorist, Robert Eckelberger, R. D 1, Perrysville, was slightly injured about the face in an accident yesterday afternoon at Third and Foster streets, police reported. Eckelberger's automobile collided with one driven by W. M. Mitchell, 557 Central avenue.

Takes Nine Lives.

Flood waters in Illinois and the severe cold in the middlewest had claimed a total of nine lives today, press dispatches said. Two men died in Ohio traffic accidents attributed to the blinding snow. One accident was at Lancaster and the other at West Lafayette.

Federal forecasters predicted that the cold would release its grasp on sections of the midwest probably by Thursday night as the frigid wave moves eastward.

While storm conditions were bad over a score of mid-western states, northern Michigan was hardest hit by the wintry blasts.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan ordered state relief agencies to provide aid for storm victims, Associated Press dispatches said. In some parts of the state drifts were as high as houses, and the storm at Calumet was described as the worst in 20 years. Rescue squads were send to the aid of the crews of six snow plows reported lost near Escanaba, Mich.

One man was asphyxiated in the cab of a truck near Calumet, Mich., while trying to open a road for a doctor on an emergency call. The wind reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour in the upper peninsula of Michigan and carried with it the heaviest fall of snow in years.

Hit by a $300,000 fire yesterday, Marquette awaited supplies of food and clothing which was to be rushed across the Straits of Mackinac.

While the cold was general, temperatures failed to establish new marks for the season in most states. The coldest spot on the United States weather map was 11 degrees below zero at Alexandria, Minn. Others reporting included Devil's Lake, N. D., 10 below; Iowa City, Ia., six below, and Minneapolis, two below.

Drifts 8-Feet High.

In Ohio, the snow was reported heaviest in the central western counties. Champaign county had drifts eight feet deep, and all rural schools were closed as the drifts blocked highways and tied up traffic.

Cincinnati, with an official reading of 6.5 degrees, had the coldest weather in two years. It was four above at Urbana.

A gigantic ice jam at Niagara Falls threatened the famous International bridge. The huge mass of ice, driven off Lake Erie by a southwest gale, reached a height of 30 feet after going over the falls and shoved the two "Maid of the Mist" steamers off their winter drydock; reports said.

Engineers of the International Railway company announced today they were considering dynamiting a huge ice jam below the Falls in an effort to save its historic bridge from destruction.

The bridge, which spans the lower Niagara river about 1,000 feet from the mighty Cataracts, is owned by the Railway company.

Early this afternoon, while a crowd watched, part of the upper bridge structure shifted perceptibly downstream. Several large steel girders supporting the arch had previously been twisted by ice.

A section of the upper part of the span about three or four feet long bulged out six inches to a foot.

GIRL SENTENCED

Ordered to Industrial School For Assault on Woman.

A 17-year-old Mansfield colored girl who confessed assaulting Mrs. Jerome Hecht, Mansfield, in an altercation at the Richland county relief office Jan. 10, was ordered committed to the girls' industrial school at Delaware this morning by Judge C. J. Anderson in county juvenile court.

Mrs. Hecht, who was treated at General hospital for head injuries following the attack, has recovered, Judge Anderson said.

The girl, arrested on an assault and battery charge contained in an affidavit signed by Mrs. Hecht's husband, pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned more than two weeks ago. She had been free under bond pending an investigation of her record.

She admitted pursuing Mrs. Hecht from the relief office at 23 Orange street and knocking her against the cement base of a gasoline pump at a filling station across the street.

MOSCOW — (AP) — The United States embassy today awaited the reply of the Soviet government to its second formal note demanding permission for an embassy official to visit Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens in prison without delay.

Mrs. Rubens, an American citizen, is held on suspicion of espionage. The note was delivered to the foreign office yesterday on instructions from Secretary of State Hull.

The embassy declined to comment, but other foreign diplomats expressed belief that the formal character of the new demand, requiring under diplomatic usage a written reply, might hasten the interview.

DIES OF RABIES

MIDDLETOWN — (AP) — The death of Clarence Gracy, 20, set in motion today a county-wide investigation to determine the source of rabies, from which the man died.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.
Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

HIRES TEACHER, HEARS REPORT

School Board Holds Special Session to Act on Three Questions.

Meeting in special session at 5 p. m. yesterday, the Mansfield board of education acted on three items of business and conferred with Dr. T. C. Holy of the bureau of educational research at Ohio State university, who is completing a survey of the building facilities of Mansfield schools.

The board employed Miss Flora Elliott of Columbus as an English teacher at John Simpson Junior high school to replace Miss Elizabeth Hainer, who was granted a leave of absence during the remainder of the present school term. Miss Hainer requested the leave to permit her to continue work on a degree.

A textbook for a salesmanship course at Senior high school, "Business Principles Everyone Should Know," was adopted by the board.

Board members voted to send Supt. W. L. Miller to Atlantic City, N. J., the last week in February, as a delegate to the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators.

Dr. Holy, who was employed by the board several weeks ago to conduct a survey of the Mansfield school building facilities with a view to recommending changes in districts and a possible building program, submitted the first of a set of statistics to the board.

He agreed to have a complete report and a list of recommendations ready by May 1.

UIBLE RUNS FOR STATE OFFICE

House Speaker Makes Bid As Ohio Lieutenant Governor.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Speaker Frank R. Uible (D., Cuyahoga) of the Ohio house of representatives had his hat in the ring today for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Uible, serving his third term, announced his candidacy late yesterday at a caucus of house Democrats and immediately was voted their endorsement.

Uible said he "hoped" to receive support from both Gov. Martin L. Davey's adherents and those of former Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati.

Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder of Elton has announced that he would not seek re-election.

NAMED HEAD OF RELIEF OFFICE

in this district and also headed its predecessor, the CWA. He also served as relief director for several months.

"We know of no one who is better able to handle the problem," Mitchell said, pointing to the fact that Nist served in a relief post during the worst of the depression.

The county relief headquarters at 28 Orange street has been swamped with applicants for help since early in December and at times officials have had difficulty maintaining order as long lines of applicants waited for interviews.

The county, which has a present relief debt of nearly $20,000, today had been promised $66,349 from the state for financing its direct relief program in 1938—provided the county can raise half that amount to match funds one-to-two dollars.

The county's funds from the state, provided by a bill passed recently by the state legislature, will come in monthly allocations of $5,529, requiring the county to produce $2,754 each month for matching purposes. The matching plan will provide nearly $100,000 for relief in 1938 if carried out.

Where the county's share will come from is still a puzzle to relief officials, but County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe advanced the opinion that Mansfield, Madison township, Shelby and other subdivisions will have to contribute to the fund later in the year to assure care for their relief families.

At least a part of the county's relief debt will be retired Feb. 1 with an $18,658 state allocation expected Friday, Wolfe said. A part of that amount, however, probably will be held in reserve for matching other state allocations, he added.

The $18,658 allocation represents the last of a relief bond surplus fund from which the county has been drawing an average of $4,000 monthly for direct relief expenses.

With approximately 4,500 persons receiving relief in the districts under the county relief system, the monthly bill has averaged from $10,000 to $14,000 since November, but relief officials expected the cost to drop after March 1. More than half of the county's 18 townships are paying their own relief bills.

14 Soldiers Die as Bombs Seized In Paris Explode

HIGHER DEATH TOLL FEARED; HUNT BODIES

Hand Grenades Explode While Troops Move Them to Safety Near French Capital.

PARIS—(U.P.)—A case of hand grenades, seized at a secret headquarters of the terrorist "hooded men" organization, exploded today in the midst of a group of soldiers.

Police estimated that 14 men were killed but searched for further bodies.

Police in a raid Jan. 16 seized 600 hand grenades, in 18 cases; 20,000 cartridges, three machine guns and 71 automatic rifles at a secret cache of the hooded men, on Cagoulards, near the St. Nazaire station.

Taken To Laboratory.

The bombs were taken to an annex of the municipal laboratory in the suburb of Villejuif in southeastern Paris, because it was thought too dangerous to keep them in central Paris.

Municipal authorities of Villejuif protested that the entire suburb was endangered by the bombs and demanded their removal.

This morning soldiers arrived in army trucks to take the bombs to the artillery proving grounds at Vincennes so that the fuses could be removed.

The soldiers began removing the bomb cases from wooden shacks of the annex One detail dropped a case, believed to contain 32 bombs. The bombs exploded. The four soldiers who were carrying the case and others nearby were killed.

Shacks Destroyed.

Shacks in which the bombs were stored were destroyed, as were some similar shacks nearby in which poor families lived. Police feared that additional victims would be found in the ruins of inhabited shacks.

The blast shattered windows for blocks around the laboratory. It was heard for miles. Ambulances and fire apparatus were sent to the scene, and Minister of Interior Albert Sarraut went to take charge.

Judges Rule Out 'Shopper' As Legal Notice Advertiser

ELYRIA —(U.P.)— Two common pleas judges today ordered republication of a legal notice placed in the Lorain News—formerly "The Lorain Shopper"—on the ground that the publication was not a newspaper.

Judge D A. Cook and Guy B. Findley handed down the decision in refusing to confirm the title of a foreclosed property sold at sale by Sheriff William F. Grall, of Lorain county, to Emily Albright.

The court said the publication, distributed in nearby Lorain, O., had changed its name from the Lorain Shopper in order "to resemble a newspaper" and that "it lacks reporters, news facilities and editorial offices."

It added that the News was "a weekly give-away publication" and that it had only two paid subscribers, neither living in Ohio.

The court said that it was in the public interest that legal notices "be given as wide a publicity as possible."

Surviving beside Mrs. Stevens is another sister, Mrs. Roy Tennis of Shiloh, a sister, Mrs. Ida Hafer, Shelby; a brother, D. A. Taylor of Mansfield, 11 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

They learned that the teams have plays and blocking as they do in football.

Dr. D. C. Lavender is chuckling about an answer he got from the highway garage today when he called to learn about the condition of a road near Pavonia, because a professional call had come to him from there. The garage told him, he says, that a plow was in the neighborhood, and may or may not have cleared the road in question. The voice on the other end suggested that the doctor drive out and see if the road was open. The latter has a hunch he might have figured out that way of getting the information without telephoning anybody!

Open dates on Mansfield's social and entertainment calendar are scarce—so the University club, which is sponsoring the appearance here March 11 of Mrs. Martin Johnson, noted jungle explorer, is taking no chances. It sent pleas to other clubs, churches, societies and lodges not to schedule anything on March 11, that will conflict with their program at the high school.

HEAR JEWELL

Richland Lawyers to Attend State Bar Meeting.

A number of Mansfield attorneys will attend sessions of the annual mid-winter convention of the state bar association, opening in Columbus tomorrow morning and continuing through Saturday night.

Judge H W. Jewell, Delaware, chairman of the state parole board, is scheduled to speak Thursday and may answer criticism of the Franklin county grand jury aimed at himself and the parole board.

Jewell will address a group of county prosecuting attorneys, and will speak on general parole board work. The grand jury said it considered Judge Jewell was "temperamentally unfitted for his work as a parole board member."

The grand jury did not amplify this statement, but Judge C. H. Huston, of the Richland county common pleas court, cautioned a similar grand jury which he impaneled last week, to state reasons for any findings it might make.

Among the Mansfield attorneys who plan to attend the convention are C. H. Henkel, J. H. Gongwer, William McE. Weldon, Henry Huston, Judge Huston, Prosecutor Glenn Marriott and W. H. Gifford, a district vice president of the state association.

CALL EX-MAYOR TO GRAFT QUIZ

Senate Probers Hear Former Akron Official Directed 'Rakeoff' In Gas Sales.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—C. Lloyd Weil, former mayor of Akron, was summoned before the senate's graft-hunting committee today as its chairman, J. Ralph Seidner (D-Mahoning), asserted the investigation thus far virtually had stopped "the practice of paying commissions and percentages on business done with the state."

Seidner declined to reveal the nature of the testimony sought from Weil but Rep. Gus Kasch (D-Summit) recently declared on the floor of the house that the former mayor was in charge of the "rakeoff" or collection of one-half cent a gallon on all gasoline sold to the state.

Kasch made the charge during debate on a proposed amendment which would require vendors doing business with the state to sign a statement swearing they had not paid any commissions before they could receive state contracts.

The Summit county representative said at the time that he received his information from State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, whose investigators have been probing various state departments since early last year.

Seidner declared the committee had made "important disclosures" in previous hearings but added that it must be voted funds by the legislature "in order to accomplish larger and even more far-reaching results."

PERFECT TIMING OF PIANO DUO THRILLS CIVIC MUSIC AUDIENCE

By JANE WILLIAMS

Before Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff were booked by the Mansfield Civic Music association to appear in concert here, it is doubtful if they were known by reputation to more than 100 persons in the city, but after their concert at Senior High school last night, their praises were being heralded to the sky, and they were assured that the "welcome" mat would be out for them whenever they care to return.

These two interesting and talented persons, who are husband and wife, and teacher and pupil, as well as fellow concert artists, gave a two-piano concert that impressed the music novice and actually thrilled the devotee of piano music.

Without any great show of power, they have it in abundance: there was no ivory-pounding to show that they were artists Despite the fact that the tempo of the music was at times breathtakingly fast, their timing was perfect—as though mechanically controlled.

"How do you do it?" they were asked after the concert as they stood in the midst of a flock of autograph seekers. "How do you have such perfect timing, apparently without watching each other?".

"It is here," Genia Nemenoff said, pointing to her very attractive and well-coiffeured head. "We could play in a dark room, and still play as one person. We have played together so long."

These two Russians live in America now: they have a permanent home in New York City, where they study and teach, with about three months on concert tour each year.

And here's a tip for small boys and girls who have piano aspirations: Luboshutz and Nemenoff practice six hours every day that they are not on tour; six hours that are just as regular as though they punched a time clock in a factory.

"We have no social life, no luncheon engagement, when we are at home." Nemenoff said, "because nothing must interfere with our practice."

That they have much in common is indicated by the fact that they not only play with unusual unanimity, but seem to have identical interpretations. This was best illustrated by their playing of "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" in which they seemed to have but one set of hands as they interpreted Rimsky-Korsakoff's well known scherzo.

The audience last night was small—approximately 500 persons—because of the weather, but those who braved the storm and cold were most enthusiastic and the players were gracious, winding up the concert with a gay gesture—the "Arkansas Traveler"—played as though it rightfully had a place on the program beside Bach and Mozart.

The first half of the program was given over to the older composers. While all of the numbers were enthusiastically received, at least two were outstanding These were the two movements of Johann Christian Bach's Sonata in G major, and "Variations on a Theme of Haydn" by Brahms, in which the players attained brilliant heights of execution

The second half of the program, made up of modern music was, as usual the most popular with the audience While von Weber's "Invitation to the Dance" might not properly be classified with the later composers, the lilting theme and interpretative movements seem naturally to place it there.

Levotzki's enchanting waltz, "Tzicane" and the "Carmen Fantasy" by the American composer, Chasins, a fantasy which carries the emotional themes and airs from Bizet's opera "Carmen," were things long to be remembered by lovers of good music.

Besides the numbers listed on the program, they played three additional ones: the "Arkansas Traveler," which has come to be an American folk song; Stravinsky's "Russian Dance," and Infante's "Ritmo."

Luboshutz and Nemenoff played last week for Mrs. Roosevelt in Washington; the latter part of the week they will give a concert in Chicago. Last night they were introduced by Marie Marks Porterfield, Mansfield pianist.

Odd Fellows Degree Team to Entertain Tomorrow Evening.

SNAG IN SENATE SEEN ON FEB. 10 QUITTING DATE

Graft Hunters Fear Probe In State Would Be Ended, Shy at Resolution.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A definite move to end the special session of the Ohio legislature Feb. 10 took shape in the house of representatives today under the guidance of administration leaders

A sine die adjournment resolution, approved by the Democratic members in caucus, was expected to come up for a vote immediately and observers believed it would be adopted.

In the senate, however, defeat of the resolution was considered almost certain because administration foes feared it would end their investigation of alleged graft in the state government. The attorney general has held that the investigating committee could not function after adjournment

On the other hand, refusal of the senate to agree with the resolution introduced by Rep. Bishop Kilpatrick, Democratic floor leader in the house, would put Gov. Martin L. Davey in a position to adjourn the session

Might be 'Showdown.'

Some administration foes in the senate, irritated by the house's failure to approve a bill carrying $40,000 to finance the inquiry, were hopeful that the governor would send the legislature home. They said such action would indicate the governor feared to permit the investigation to proceed further.

House leaders, desiring to clean up all important business now pending, planned to work through Thursday and recess until Feb. 8, then work until Feb. 10.

Adjournment might kill the administration's $3,000,000 supplemental appropriation bill for state departments as well as balk legislative action on requests for an additional $1,128,000 sent down by Governor Davey. Senate leaders, though, have shown a disposition to grant not more than $1,500,000 of the requested $4,128,000

The house approved and sent to the senate a bill carrying $17,000,000 for payment of old age pensions this year after inserting an amendment prohibiting the governor from making blanket increases in pension grants while applicants were waiting to get on the rolls. Rep L. C. Washburn (D-Summit) offered the amendment.

The $17,000,000, sponsors of the bill said, would be sufficient to pay an average monthly award of $23 10 to the 104,000 persons now on the rolls and to care for an additional 12,000 pensioners. All the amount would come from liquor taxes and profits except $3,000,000, which would have to be taken out of the state general revenue fund

OWES CITY CASH

Sanitary Engineer at Shelby Overpaid, Audit Shows.

Floyd G. Browne owes the city of Shelby $206 88 overpaid him while acting as a sanitary engineer on a sewer construction project, a state audit report of the city showed today, according to United Press dispatches from Columbus.

State Examiner Elmer A. Zook said that the wrong basis for determining Browne's payment was used and that he should restore the funds.

Sundry electric consumers owe the city $326.11 for undercharges on their electric bills, the report also said.

The two items made up the major portion of a $631.31 unpaid total which should be restored to proper accounts

The audit covered from Oct. 1, 1935 to May 15, 1937.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

THE GREAT thoughts of James Roosevelt on public affairs would be more impressive if, in addition to being son and secretary of the president, and also "co-ordinator in chief" for the administration, he were not also in the insurance business. The fact, plus the activities of other members of his family in capitalizing their presidential connection, somewhat detracts from the force of lectures on political ethics, public morality and civic duty which from time to time come from the White House. However, while the recent speech of the president's son was somewhat smug, and be quite clearly got the worst of the argument in his debate with Congressman Pettengill, of Indiana, on the departmental reorganization bill, his utterances were not without value in that they revealed again the intense administration hostility to the general accounting office under the comptroller general.

ACTUALLY, the real struggle in this reorganization of the government business is over the general accounting office under the comptroller general, which is now independent of the executive and the only source from which an independent audit of anything can be hoped for or obtained. On one side in this controversy is Mr. Roosevelt, who wants the office abolished and the auditing done by auditors responsible to the heads of departments. Leading the other side is Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia who insists that the president's plan will do away with the one impartial statistical agency in the government, the only check there is on waste and recklessness

HE FURTHER contends that the president's plan would put the auditors under political control and the abolition of the comptroller general will mean that each department will audit itself, which he submits, is not only ridiculous but bad. To all this the administration retort, as voiced by such spokesmen as James Roosevelt, is that the comptroller general hampers rather than helps and "nags" government officials. It is the Byrd contention that federal officials who spend billions of dollars of the public funds ought to be nagged to account for the way it is being spent, and the nagging ought to be done by some one they are not able to dismiss if they do not like him.

THE weight of the administration is so heavy that Senator Byrd's fight is against great odds. Yet recent developments certainly have strengthened his arm. One of these is the amazing revelation of the imaginary CCC camp, which a clerk in the Interior department set up and collected $81,000 for himself in faked vouchers This camp which existed only on paper, was discovered as a fake only by accident and after the payments had covered nearly four years. Another development is the testimony before a senate committee that it is impossible to tell how many other such fakes have been perpetrated because there has never been a real audit of the department—to conduct a real audit that will reveal how many, if any, such things have happened would take sixty men, a year's time and a million dollars.

STILL another is the latest report of the comptroller general, in which he shows gross violation of law and disregard of the ordinary rules of auditing and accounting in the federal service. Ashmun Brown, of the Providence Journal, asserts that there is no living person with an even approximate accurate idea of how much money has been collected and spent by the government since the New Deal began setting up alphabetical agencies, self-auditing in some cases and with no audit at all in others. Congressman Wigglesworth asserts that there are sixteen governmental agencies not required to submit accounts to the general auditing offices and twelve others which are required to do so, but do not do so. He declares that "25,000,000 rental and benefit payments under the Department of Agriculture, extending over four years and totaling $1,300,000,000, have not been audited.

WHEN the staggering size of the governmental expenditures is considered, the laxness and looseness of the accounting system and the absurdity of the bookkeeping methods are simply fantastic. Skilled accountants, who know the facts, are shocked to their statistical souls. They do not charge corruption, though no one can tell how much there is of that, but they do agree that the opportunities for waste are practically limitless. All of this makes the fight of Senator Byrd a particularly interesting one. He does not contend that the comptroller general's department is adequate. He thinks it should be expanded, strengthened and fortified. But its main merit in his eyes is its independence of the departments, which makes it possible for it to tell the truth. Its abolition, he insists, will leave congress with no agency which can be relied upon for unbiased information and remove the only check there is to unrestrained governmental extravagance The fight has reached the stage where the White House would rather win on this point of abolishing the comptroller general than on any other Neither blandishments nor threats have been successful in diverting Senator Byrd from his views, though both have been tried, and it is no secret that Mr Roosevelt has now developed a violent personal feeling toward Senator Byrd which he is unable to conceal when his name is mentioned. He has, in fact, indulged in some amazing outbursts on the subject.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Unreel parade:

Gone from this year's new contracts—and not missed—is the marriage clause. . . . Studios decided finally, as so many of their movie titles implied, that they couldn't beat love. . . . A girl can get married now before she's 21 and the studio will give blessings—as it did to Anne Shirley, who technically violated her contract in marrying John Payne, and she only 19 now. . . . Besides all which, the studios have learned it doesn't make any difference in a player's popularity when she marries . . .

Practical jokes come high in Hollywood. . . . Harry Ritz claims the laugh was on him—$10,000 worth—in this one. He came home, found his wife wearing a new square-cut diamond. . . . "I got it at that nice jewelry store you showed me on the boulevard," she said. "I had it charged to you." . . . But next evening she wasn't wearing it. . . . "That's one on you," Mrs. Harry laughed. "I had the ring only for a day—as a rib. I didn't really buy it." . . . But Harry had sent the jeweler his check—that morning!

Heard a story the other day which may explain why Charlie Chaplin takes his time. . . . Chaplin arrives at the studio, even when he's working, at his own convenience. . . . Ten o'clock, 11 o'clock, 12 o'clock, it's all one with him . . . One day, when Charlie was in production, he strolled in about 10.30, and inadvertently, at the same moment, one of his employes was looking at his watch . . . Chaplin boiled, turned on the offender: "Don't pull a watch on me," he fumed. "Mack Sennett used to do that. I won't have anybody pulling a watch on me—in my own studio!"

The dopesters look for Joan Crawford to leave Metro when her contract is up, with Goldwyn as most likely bidder. . . . And for Joan Blondell to skip Warner's after one more picture—to freelance.

Cary Grant (since "The Awful Truth") is getting $100,000 a picture. . . . Which is pretty good for a kid named Archie Leach who used to be an acrobat!

A scene in "Gypsy" ran into trouble the other day. . . . Jane Withers had to release a carrier pigeon through a window, and was merely dropping it. . . . After several attempts it came out that Jane was afraid throwing it—as is customary—would hurt the bird. The other trouble was Borrah Minnevitch's. . . . Trained to wiggle his forehead while harmonica-playing, Borrah unconsciously wiggled it with every line of dialogue. . . . Stern self-discipline conquered the obstacle.

SEABISCUIT TOPS 'EM FOR SPEED

Owner of Crack Runner Still Seeking Race With War Admiral.

By HENRY McLEMORE

HOLLYWOOD — (UP) — War Admiral is a great horse and a sterling representative of the four-legged equine department. His breeding is the equal of anything that ever had oats for a second course, but he isn't the fastest horse in the United States.

M'LEMORE

From furlong pole to furlong pole he can't pick up the weight and carry it along with—Seabiscuit.

Thats heresy in the east, and all along the Atlantic seaboard where the little son of Man o' War has brought his silks down winging.

But don't brand me as a heretic, because I'm only quoting Charley Howard, the quiet San Francisco business man who owns Seabiscuit.

Howard loves Seabiscuit. Loved him ever since that day he saw him in Saratoga, in the stables of the late Ogden Mills. Seabiscuit wasn't much to look at then. He still showed the effects of 35 races as a two-year-old. He was a discard, in fact, and Howard picked him up for $7,500. Mills looked on Howard's check as a gift.

A year later, when Seabiscuit was the top stake horse in the country, Howard went back to Mills seeking more horses. He didn't get them.

Mills said "keep your check book in your pocket Charley, because after what you've done with Seabiscuit I wouldn't sell you a goat for four dollars."

HOWARD told me this yesterday at Santa Anita. "I've always wanted a shot at War Admiral. We were all ready to race at Pimlico last November, when Alfred Vanderbilt guaranteed us a fine purse for a match race. But Samuel Riddle didn't see fit to send his horse against us. Then I figured we would have to wait until the Santa Anita Handicap I couldn't see how any man who thought he had the best horse in the country could refuse to run him for a purse of $100,000.

"But War Admiral isn't here. He is going to run in Florida for half the money that is offered here. That's his business. But I can't help but feel that if a horse is the greatest horse—and I have heard that War Admiral is—he should go for the biggest money in the biggest race."

What Howard meant was this. Nobody is scaring Seabiscuit from the big races. As a great horse he wants to be where the action is hottest. If he isn't good enough to win—well Howard wants to take a look at the runner who can lick him.

Confidentially, he doesn't think there is anything on four legs that can beat Seabiscuit from seven furlongs to a mile and a quarter. He'll shoot his roll on that, too.

Mack Has No Intentions To Retire From Game.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Baseball's "grand old gentleman," Connie Mack of the Athletics, will wave his scorecard as usual in the dugout at Shibe park this summer.

"There has been much talk about my retiring," the 75-year-old manager of the Athletics said last night at the annual banquet of the Philadelphia Sports Writers association. "My intention is to continue as long as I can."

Mack, honor guest at the dinner, spoke after Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, was given a plaque as "the most courageous athlete of 1937;" Joe Dimaggio, Yankees, was given a loving cup as "the outstanding athlete of 1937," and Carl Hubbel, Giants, received a trophy as "the outstanding pitcher of 1937."

Opposed To Fishing Ban

COLUMBUS —(UP)—With Ohio sportsmen sharply divided on the question, the state conservation council today was considering establishing of a spring closed season on all fishing.

Opponents of the closed season had about a 10-to-1 majority in an informal vote taken at a hearing yesterday. Minority spokesmen, however were emphatic in their insistence that prohibition of all fishing during the bass spawning season is necessary.

Tygers End Losing Streak at Willard

Hallabrin, Smith, Scott and Shelley Play Important Roles In Mansfield's 28-26 Triumph; Reserves Score Easy Victory.

By OSCAR RUHL

DENTING the mesh for a dozen points in the fourth period Mansfield high school cagers pulled a 28 to 26 victory out of the fire in the fading minutes to snap their losing streak in Willard last night.

The triumph was the first in four games for the Tygers, who were forced to stage an uphill fight to decision Coach Dave Query's Railroaders in a thrilling battle that kept the small crowd on the edge of its seats.

Outside of a brief period at the start of the game and third quarter, the Tygers trailed until late in the final chapter.

Johnny Hallabrin led the comeback which enabled the Tygers to get back into the ball game in the first half. Tommy Scott provided the spark in the rally in which Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers snared the advantage in the third quarter, and Ike Smith put the game on ice with a timely basket in the fading seconds of the fourth stanza.

Dave Shelley also contributed his bit to the victory by constantly breaking up the Willard play.

Click Right Away.

Hallabrin, who is nursing a bad ankle, and Scott did not get into the ball game until late in the first period, and the Tygers did not start clicking in their usual style until they were inserted.

Trailing 9-1 with hardly a minute to go in the first quarter, Murphy sent Hallabrin and Scott into the fray, and the former contributed a pair of baskets immediately to reduce the lead to four points at the end of the quarter.

The second period developed into a defensive battle, but Mansfield cut the lead two more points, Hallabrin and Jack Lyons scoring the only two baskets registered by the winners. A long shot by Greer permitted Willard to hold a 11-9 advantage at the intermission.

A pair of buckets and a free throw by Scott gave the Tygers their first lead since the start of the game after the intermission. Another basket by Lyons sent the Tygers four points ahead of the Querymen, but the hosts rallied near the end of the quarter to take a 19-16 lead.

The lead changed a couple of times in the fourth frame before the Tygers obtained the advantage on which they rode to victory. Successive baskets by Hallabrin gave the Tygers the lead they never relinquished, but it was Smith's bucket which cinched the argument in the final minute.

Hallabrin and Scott tallied 11 and seven points, respectively, to pace the Tygers, while Wolfe and Jenney each scored six to lead the well-drilled Willard aggregation, which offered Mansfield one of its toughest games of the season.

Lead Reserves in Rout.

With Bill Herpich and Gene Rudolph accounting for 33 points, the Mansfield reserves raced unmolested to a one-sided 48 to 17 victory over the home subs in the prelim.

Allowing only five baskets, the junior Tygers led 5-2 in the first period, 19-5 at the half and 35-13 at the completion of the third quarter.

Herpich tallied 19 points in the easy triumph while Rudolph produced 14.

Butler Beats Lucas To Tie Ontario Club

Butler high's fast-stepping cage machine jumped into a tie with Ontario for first place in the Richland county league last night by defeating Lucas, 30 to 26, at Butler.

Led by King, who dropped in 16 points, the Bulldogs grabbed an early lead as they registered their seventh league triumph. The defeat dropped Lucas into fifth place.

Holding Tom Greulich, league leading individual scorer, to a single goal and five free throws, the Butlerites hopped into a 7 to 5 advantage in the opening period.

The Butler outfit continued to locate the hoop with little difficulty and was ahead, 15 to 8, as the half ended. As the two clubs resumed play in the final stanza, the winners were leading, 25 to 18. Greulich was high-point man for the invaders with seven.

The Lucas seconds edged the Butler reserves, 15 to 14, in the prelim.

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BILL TERRY'S story in the recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post has the writers gnashing their molars. It merely adds coal to the fierce fire of the feud existing between the adjective slingers and the Giants' pilot these many years. Some day someone may regret that the feud ever existed. . . . Supt. L. C. Stingel will have to hire another hall if he expects to accommodate all of the cage fanatics who want to see Friday eve's Ontario-Butler melee . . . High school athletic stars are becoming more efficient. A western coach received a letter from one in which the youth extolled his ability as a touchdown scorer. The letter was mimeographed. . . . Poor Joe. The heighweight titleholder lost $4.85 betting on Tommy Farr in the Braddock fight. . . . Nick Frascella has a pretty good reason for being tickled over the fact that he will play against Ashland college again Saturday. In the five games against the Eagles in three years, the Scot has tallied 124 points. He scored 38 in the opener with Ashland this season. . . . Jim Rae, who helped Toledo DeVilbis beat the Tygers in a court game here a couple of years ago, is the same Jim Rae now starring for Michigan.

HORSESHOE pitching is at least 2,500 year old—or, at least, as old as the horseshoe. . . . Chuck Klein will never last out the coming season wearing major spangles, so they say. Ailing legs are the reasons. . . . The ball players' recent golf tourney came through as predicted. Paul Waner was the favorite. And he won. . . . You can just about bet on it that Fritz Crisler will get the Michigan coaching job. . . . There's a colored boy fighting on the coast under the name of "Ace of Spades." . . . The medico who delivered Max Baer's baby boy said the infant had the broadest shoulders and biggest hands he had ever seen on a youngster. . . . Bob Zupke, Illinois coach, was born in Germany and brought to this country when two years old. . . . Scoring has not been increased as much by the jump elimination as expected. . . . Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, will be the only active every-day playing manager in the majors this year. . . . In 1916, Ohio U. defeated Wittenberg, 89 to 0, on the grid and then lost to Syracuse, 72-0. To make it perfect Wittenberg should have turned around and beaten Syracuse.

JOHNNY HALLABRIN has been nicknamed "Poison" by Mt. Vernon cage followers. In a game last winter, Hallabrin won for the Tygers over the Jackets with a last-second shot. He forced the game into an overtime period in their only meeting this season with a free throw. . . . Jesse Owens plays golf, but won't ride a bicycle or swim for fear of injuring or softening his leg muscles. . . . Paul Runyan says a good golfer should sink one chip shot out of every three rounds. Ross also has a $40,000 offer to defend his title against Jack Carroll at Sydney, Australia, on April 18.

GEHRIG FINDS MOVIE ACTING MORE FUN THAN PLAYING IN WORLD SERIES

HOLLYWOOD — (UP) — Lou Gehrig, the New York Yankee first baseman who began his movie-cowboy career a month ago astride a western pony equipped with bicycle handlebars, today was Hollywoods toughest—and strangest—cowpuncher.

With two six-shooters on his hips in typical western fashion, the home run king pulled his horse to a halt, tipped a bullet-creased hat back on his curly head and dismounted in front of a saloon in a rough-and-tough movie cowtown.

He swaggered to the door of the saloon, yawned and, eastern accent and all, yelled: "Boy! This is more fun than even the world series."

The burly son of the movie west who has driven scores of pitchers from the mounds of American league baseball diamonds is now driving rustlers from the range in his first movie, "Rawhide."

He is playing a familiar role—that of Lou Gehrig. The movie Gehrig, however, has retired from baseball and is raising cattle on his own ranch.

A gang of eastern racketeers steals his cattle; Cowboy Gehrig straps on his six-guns and goes into action. He knocks out half the rustlers with the pool hall eight ball and runs the rest back east.

Gehrigs acting has become convincing. His lines today were perfect. When he became hard-boiled, he was hard-boiled.

The two-gun man, who never shot a gun until a month ago, wouldn't care to give up baseball for the movies, "but it would be swell to play ball in the summer and make movies in the winter," he said.

They laughed at Gehrig's horsemanship the first day he rode, but he has become an accomplished rider.

"Mrs. Gehrig razzed me for a week when I told her I'd have to ride a horse. But I didn't even get a blister, and my legs never did get sore. Now I ride every chance I get."

Gehrig plans to return to New York when his picture is completed early in February to discuss terms with Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees. He has not been offered a contract yet, but he hopes to increase his 1965 consecutive games—and not at the expense of the team. He said he would play "as long as I'm of use to the boss."

"In the last line of my picture I get a wire to come back to the Yankees," he said. "Well, that's what I'm going to do—right after that last line."

Ruppert's Champions Again Problem Club of Baseball

Owner of Yankees Has No Intention to Weaken Team; Plans to Make It the Most Formidable Organization In Game.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK—(UP)—The New York Yankees again have become the problem club of baseball. The other American League clubs can't beat them and in the past two World series the National League's best club has looked pitiful in comparison.

Ford Frick, National League president, recently said the Yanks were becoming a serious menace to baseball and should be dismantled. Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, is of another mind, however.

"Tear down the Yanks?" snorts Ruppert. "Not on your life. We are going to build them up more than ever. If we are a menace let the other clubs build up to us. It is my idea to win as many pennants as we can by as wide a margin as possible. I have advised everyone in the Yankee organization and farm system to get more young players, outbid all other clubs for talent, hire the best managers and make the Yankees the most formidable organization in the history of baseball."

Chief Rivals Again.

What are the other clubs doing to build up to the Yankees? Their three chief rivals last year were the Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians, and they promise to furnish the Yanks their toughest opposition again in 1938. The Tigers and White Sox made the biggest deal of the winter season with Gerald Walker, Marvin Owen and Rookie Catcher Mike Tresh going to Chicago and Vernon Kennedy, Dixie Walker and Tony Piet to Detroit.

Despite the criticism heaped on Mickey Cochrane for disposing of the Detroit fans' fair-haired boy, Gerald Walker, the deal may play an important part in determining the American League race and prove beneficial to the Tigers.

Cochrane, desperate for pitchers, had to sacrifice something to get a proven hurler. Kennedy, if he can curb his wildness, may take up the slack in the Tigers' pitching caused by the loss of Schoolboy Rowe, who seems definitely through.

The White Sox plugged the big gap in their infield at third base by acquiring Owen and added punch by getting G. Walker.

Cleveland's big problem is to get the maximum out of the material at hand and the acquisition of Oscar Vitt as manager may possibly convert the Indians into a hustling, heads-up club. The Indians have potentially the finest pitching staff in baseball, and if Bob Feller, Johnny Allen, Mel Harder, and Denny Galehouse hit on all cylinders they will give the Yanks something to worry about.

Build Up Farm.

The owners of the National League champions do not see eye to eye with Ruppert about running a ball club if the efforts to strengthen the Giants since their World series debacle may be taken as a guide. They've spent more time and effort trying to build up their Jersey City farm club than they have the Giant club itself. President Horace Stoneham says that the Giants are all set to make their 1938 pennant bid with what they have, which is very little more than the 1937 cast.

Of the other National League contenders the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals seem to have done most towards strengthening their clubs.

Not Interested In Mungo At MacPhail's Price.

CHICAGO—(UP)—Larry MacPhail, new business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, left today for St. Louis after an unsuccessful conference with the Chicago Cubs on a deal involving Pitcher Van Mungo.

"MacPhail wanted too many players for Mungo," said one Cub spokesman. "We can't afford to break up a good team just to land a star right-hander." The Dodgers wanted, among others, Outfielder Frank Demaree and Pitcher Clay Brayant.

Terry's Piece Draws Laughs From Scribes

NEW YORK —(AP)— New York sports scribes laughed and swore at Bill Terry's magazine piece . . . Says the Columbus (Ohio) State Journal: "First major league roster off the presses is the Boston Red Sox . . . which is the last time they'll be ahead of the Yanks this season" . . .

ACTIVE SELLING IN INDUSTRIALS JOLTS MARKET

Shares Drop 1 to 4 Points Before Trading Quiets Down In 2nd Hour.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Active selling in steels and other industrial groups jolted the stock market today and losses of 1 to about 4 points were numerous.

Trading quieted near the second hour after the market had absorbed the largest selling orders of the new year.

Liquidation in steels seemed to have been influenced in part by the fourth quarter statement of U. S. Steel, showing a deep cut in earnings as result of the autumn business slump. Brokers said the showing, however, was about in line with expectations in financial circles.

Washington reports of prospective U. S. defense spending plans continued to draw much attention in speculative circles on the chance they might ultimately become an important factor in heavy industries.

Business figures showed little change in pace following the recent new year pickup. The Edison Electric Institute estimated power production last week was off 6.6 per cent compared with the like 1937 period, the same year-to-year percentage decline as in the previous week.

President Roosevelt's stand against wage cuts aroused wide interest in Wall Street in view of uncertainty over steel prices.

STEEL RESUMES SLOW ADVANCE

Mill Operations Increase To 32 Per Cent, 'Iron Age' Says.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Steel mill operations, continuing to advance slowly, are estimated this week at 32½ per cent of capacity, "but business shows no signs anywhere of substantial improvement," "Iron Age" said today in its weekly review of the steel industry.

"Steel buyers are not relaxing their caution of the past few months, which strongly suggests they will await the outcome next month of wage negotiations between the United States Steel Corp. and the Steel Workers Organizing committee before making any but the most necessary commitments," the publication said.

"There is scarcely any sentiment in the steel industry in favor of reductions of either wages or prices," the Organ said.

Mine Workers' Resolution Also Urge Labor Peace.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Resolutions asking President Roosevelt to seek a third term, and urging peace between the CIO and the American Federation of Labor were placed before the United Mine Workers convention today.

There were 2,172 resolutions on file, six asking for a third term for Mr. Roosevelt and dozens for labor peace.

The Roosevelt third-term resolutions came from Royal, Avella and New Salem, Pa., Everettsville and Rivesville, W. Va., and Uniontown, Ky.

INMATES, JURY SEE FIGHT FILM WITH KILBANE AS 'SOUND TRACK'

They leaned forward in their seats and peered out through the darkness at the silver screen—they even laughed heartily at times and forgot they were behind the gray walls of the Ohio State reformatory.

For nearly an hour yesterday some 500 inmates of the institution viewed moving pictures of the world's championship fight taken 25 years ago when Johnny Kilbane wrested the featherweight crown from Abe Attell in a 20-round decision.

But yesterday was a special occasion at the institution, for Kilbane himself brought the pictures to the reformatory when he returned here from Cleveland Monday. Kilbane is a special investigator working in the attorney general's office and is in Mansfield with the special grand jury investigating the parole system here.

Not only were the inmates entertained with the movies, but the grand jury adjourned their session a half hour early and four women and eleven men were special guests at the showing.

The former world's champion acted as commentator for the silent pictures and was responsible for the many laughs that the boys enjoyed.

"Pipe dose hats and caps," Johnny commented as the first scene showed a part of the crowd that attended the open air show that was staged at Veniece, Calif., in 1912.

Kilbane was happy—boxing still thrills him. After the show he said, "Some day I'm going to come back and show those kids some more pictures that I have." They are all "kids" to Johnny, who is 48, and has flowing white hair.

SEEK STRONGER U. S. DEFENSES

Capital Hears Demands For More Men, Guns as Alarm Grows In Europe.

(By The Associated Press)

Uncle Sam cast about today for ways to bolster American defenses before a turbulent, quarreling world.

More men, more guns, added strength in the air and at sea, stronger defenses on land — these are the needs advanced by protagonists of armaments increase.

They find their reasons in the Spanish civil war, which for a year and one-half has fed Europe's war jitters; the China-Japanese war, with its frequent incidents involving foreign nations; armaments building by other nations.

The civil war in Spain has become a testing ground for the armaments of all nations, thrown in to aid one side or the other.

Too, it is an ever present visual display of the fascist-leftist cleavage in Europe, with fascist countries backing Spanish insurgents—although the fighting itself seems to have become a tug of war.

In China, the rumbling of Shanghai's seven charity morgue wagons emphasizes war's toll is not alone from the battlefront, but also is taken behind the lines by disease and starvation. Fifty-one thousand Chinese refugees and poor have died in Shanghai since the warfare began there last August, benevolent burial officials say.

Fighting is scattered through much of China, with Japanese in control of the major cities—Shanghai, Nanking, Peiping and others.

Japanese were stalled, however, dispatches indicated today, in a drive to conquer China's lifeline railway, the Lunghai. Chinese were active near Wuhu, 60 miles above Nanking, and heavy casualties by both sides were reported.

Infantry fought hand-to-hand in Spain's conflict, the battle centering still about Teruel, 160 miles to the east of Madrid. There were, too, the customary air raids by both sides. Forty-one were killed yesterday in an insurgent air raid on Barcelona, the Spanish government said.

The world's chief avowed peace agency, the League of Nations, has been unable to bring any halt to the two wars and its council met today to debate junking sanctions as a league instrument.

Small nations hold sanctions cost them as much as the nation against which they are directed in an effort to halt aggression. The larger nations, particularly Britain and France, want sanctions left in the covenant text but appear willing to forget them as a practical policy.

There is talk in Washington congressional circles of legislation to authorize 40 additional warships, and there has been agitation for more anti-aircraft guns, increased army personnel, more tanks and planes.

Chairmen of five house committees conferred yesterday with the president who is expected within a few days to ask congress for more funds for army and navy.

'GHOST SHIP' ON WAY TO DOOM

Leviathan Heads for Scrap Heap In Scotland.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The liner Leviathan, once queen of the seas, nosed out into the North Atlantic today, a decaying, ghost ship sailing to her doom.

In 10 days the one-time "Big Train" of oceanic passenger service will drop anchor off the coast of Scotland, and later, when tides permit, proceed to the "boneyard" to be dismantled into scrap-iron.

Yesterday the vessel was pulled from the Hoboken slip where she had lain idle for three and a half years as a "liability" to the United States which confiscated her from Germany during the World war.

Words would fail our loss to tell
But in heaven we hope to meet him.
Ever more with him to dwell.

Sadly missed by his loving wife and children.

EX-MANSFIELD MINISTER DIES

Rev. F. A. Gould, 85, Was One of Founders of Anti-Saloon League.

Rev. Frederick A. Gould, 85, former pastor of the First M. E. church here and one of the founders of the Anti-Saloon league in Ohio, died at the home of his son, Kenneth in Scarsdale, N. Y., early Tuesday.

Rev. Gould served the Mansfield church for seven years, leaving here over 30 years ago. He retired in 1920 after 44 years in the ministry.

A descendant of Nathaniel Hawthorne and John Greenleaf Whittier, Rev. Gould was born in Woolwich, Me., Jan. 29, 1852, and lived in Minnesota before coming to Ohio. He was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1878, and was one of the school's oldest living alumnus.

Rev. Gould received his A. M. degree at Ohio Wesleyan and his D. D. at Baldwin-Wallace college, of which he later served as president of the board of trustees. He was a member of the Delta Tau and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities.

Ordained in 1878, Rev. Gould held pastorates at Hayesville, Gambier, Oberlin, Elyria and Cleveland before coming to Mansfield. He later served parishes in New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

Rev. Gould moved to New York City after his retirement to serve as acting minister of the Central and Summerfield Methodist churches of Brooklyn and associate editor of publications for the Methodist Home Missions board. He was widely known as a temperance lecturer.

Surviving are his son, managing editor of the Scholastic Magazine, New York; a daughter, Miriam C. Gould, associate professor of psychology at Vassar college; two brothers, two sisters and a three grandchildren. His wife preceded him in death in 1924.

The body will be brought to Mansfield for services to be conducted by Rev. E. C. Corwin, present pastor of the First M. E. church, and Rev. I. K. Umbarger, retired minister, at the Finefrock funeral home at 3 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery. The body will arrive here Thursday morning.

Industry, Not Labor, Must Bear Losses, Roosevelt Says of Wages.

building trades and with respect to them he explained yesterday that reduced hourly wage scales would be toward the objective of more employment and actually higher annual wages for workers in the construction industry.

Reply To Fairless.

Mr. Roosevelt stated his wage and price policies yesterday in a reply to what he interpreted as insistence by Benjamin Fairless, president of the United States Steel corporation, that steel prices could not be reduced without cutting wages. The president said he was opposed to wage reductions and warned mass production industries, and especially the steel industry, to meet depression problems by cutting prices in search of larger sales volumes.

"But that does not mean," Mr. Roosevelt said, "That such price reductions can come out of wages. Those who believe in the profit system must recognize that those who get the profits when business is good must bear the losses when business temporarily is slack. Those who get the profits when industry gets the volume are the ones to bear the risk of such price reductions as may be necessary to stimulate and restore volume.

"Those in charge of a well-managed and solvent industry should no more consider casting the burden of a temporary business recession upon their workers than upon their bondholders. To cast such burden on the bondholders is financial bankruptcy, but it is bankruptcy of sound business judgment.

"If industries reduce wages this winter and spring, they will be deliberately encouraging the withholding of buying—they will be fostering a downward spiral and they will make it necessary for their government to consider other means of creating purchasing power."

WESTINGHOUSE MAGAZINE TOPIC

Fortune Tells of Vast System That Manufactures 8,013 Different Products.

Jan 1. These orders will keep a heavy majority of Westinghouse's 50,000 employes working through April regardless of what happens to business in general."

Westinghouse makes 8,013 products classified by type which Fortune pictures in vivid "word pictures."

"Westinghouse wears seven league boots and straddles the entire market. Its electrical irons press gowns in penthouse apartments and red flannels in dude-ranch laundries. Its generators provide the current to run chippers in Canadian pulp mills and air drills in Arizona copper mines. Its motors drive ponderous steel slabbing mills in Braddock, Pa., and the so-called one mouse power of the electric razor that subtly shears off your beard.

"Its elevators kite you 65 stories in 47 seconds in Rockefeller Center's R. C. A. building. Its sodium lamps flood airway runways at Akron, O., and Grand Island, Neb. In southern textile mills its spinning buckets twist rayon filaments into threads, and in 15,000,000 homes its watt-hour meters tick off the line load consumed by its Mazda bulbs, its wash machine, its refrigerators, and its ranges.

"A Westinghouse subsidiary at Bridgeport, Conn., makes plugs and lamp holders—and an incongruous non-electrical line of bottle stoppers, sugar bowls, spoons, poker chip racks and Mickey Mouse dishes for children."

A complete and understandable story of the founding of the company, its first products, its branching out to become one of the two greatest companies in the industry and its financial history, are all told in the article.

Touches on Mansfield.

Arthur E. Allen, vice president in charge of merchandising operations, was sent to Mansfield four years ago from the Westinghouse Lamp company, Fortune points out, to create a separate merchandising division to make and sell the durable consumers goods. With offices in this city, he is in charge of both the Mansfield and Springfield, Mass., plants.

The article, which is profusely illustrated, carries pictures of all of the products manufactured and distributed from the Mansfield plant, including refrigerators, ranges, roasters, casseroles, irons, toasters, coffee makers, washers, water heaters, ironers and dish washers.

An analysis of the sliding wage scale of Westinghouse which was placed in effect in 1936 is discussed thoroughly.

"This scale ties the pay of 50,000 employes to net income in an automatically adjusting fashion," Fortune says.

Under the plan, employes are paid an additional one per cent for each $60,000 of net income above a base net income of $600,000.

"In the past two years Westinghouse has paid an additional $17,000,000 to labor under this plan, which has given spice to life in the Westinghouse organization," Fortune adds. "In 1936 Westinghouse wages varied from 8 to 14 per cent above the base rate. In 1937 they went as high as 16 per cent and never fell below 10 per cent, while wages in electrical equipment companies elsewhere rose less substantially."

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL

NO. 3

When to Report Income From Salaries, Wages, etc.

Of the millions of income-tax returns that are filed annually, the vast majority are from salaried persons and wage earners whose income is derived from personal services.

In general, compensation for personal services should be reported for taxation purposes in the year it is received or unqualifiedly made subject to demand. Compensation credited to the account of or set apart for a taxpayer, without any substantial limitation or restriction, and which may be drawn upon by him at any time, is subject to tax for the year during which so credited or set apart, although not then actually reduced to possession. If the services were rendered during the year 1936, or even prior thereto, but the compensation was not received, or made unqualifiedly subject to demand, by the taxpayer until the year 1937, the entire amount is taxable in the year received or made unqualifiedly subject to demand, when the taxpayer is reporting on the cash receipts and disbursements basis, which is the basis used by most persons in reporting net income.

The names of all employes to whom payments of $1,000 or over a year are made must be reported. The information return should be made on Form 1099, accompanied by transmittal Form 1096 showing the number of returns filed. These returns should be filed on or before Feb. 15, 1938.

All of the various types of compensation, unless specifically exempt by statute, or exempt by fundamental law, should be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income, such as salaries, wages, fees, commissions, bonuses, tips, honorariums, prizes, awards, retiring allowances for past services, etc. Where services are paid for in whole or in part with something other than money, the fair market value of the thing taken in payment must be included as income. Other items subject to tax are fees received by ministers of the gospel for funerals, baptisms masses, and like services; executors' fees; directors' fees; federal jury fees and prizes received in contests of various kinds.

The salaries of federal officers and employes are subject to tax including the salary of the president of the United States and judges of courts of the United States taking office after the date of enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, which was June 6, 1932. The salary of the vice president of the United States, and the salaries of members of the house of representatives and the members of the United States senate are also subject to income tax.

FLIER AIDS ROMANCE

GRIDLEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—Lyle Evert Wanless and Miss Orpha Delight Knox had their marriage license dropped to them from an airplane into the center of the ballfield where they were waiting to receive it. Entirely cut off by floods from the county seat, it was the only way they could get it in time to get married on schedule.

LILLIPUTIAN APPLE

SANTA ROSA, Cal.—(U.P.)—The Sonoma County Museum of Agricultural Curiosities has just been presented with what is believed to be the only Lilliputian apple on record. It is only a quarter of an inch in diameter, but under the microscope shows that it is a fully matured and perfect apple.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle; yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Don't Neglect Your Child's Cold

Don't let chest colds or croupy coughs go untreated. Rub Children's Musterole on child's throat and chest at once. This milder form of regular Musterole penetrates, warms, and stimulates local circulation. Floods the bronchial tubes with its soothing, relieving vapors. Musterole brings relief naturally because it's a "counter-irritant"—NOT just a salve. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

CHAPTER XII.

"But you really must meet Mrs. Kenton," he insisted, blinking at his distant wife. "If you'll pardon me a moment, I'll fetch her." He rose from his chair and started away without waiting for permission, much to Caradad's amusement. An old man with a young wife. And jealous.

Feeling quite sure that Mrs. Kenton would not leave her prescnet company at once, Caradad got to her feet and glanced about. Terry still was at the card table. Mrs. Greenway was leaning over the back of his chair watching his hand, her face very close to his. Mrs. Tankersley was nowhere in sight. Quite unnoticed in the general hubub of of merry-making, Caradad strolled about the big room. At the first open door, she paused and glanced within.

She saw a very large room. The walls were formed almost completely by filled book shelves, all save the far end which was given over to a huge fireplace. Two long tables occupied the center of the floor. Easy chairs were scattered about. The illumination was furnished by several bridge lamps throwing a subdued light from their large parchment shades.

Terry had said something about Mr. Tankersley's collecting rare books; this must be the library where he kept his treasures. Caradad looked about and, finding himself apparently unobserved, ventured over the threshold, her slippered feet moving soundlessly over the thick rug. She loved books and this would be a good opportunity to peep at them. Unfortunately, the gloom and her lack of spectacles made reading of titles a difficult matter. There seemed to be many sets of volumes, most of them in leather bindings. She strolled slowly forward in the direction of the fireplace, her eyes having caught sight of a motto engraved in its stone face. A large lamp placed on a table beside a high-backed wing chair threw its rays on the carved characters, sufficiently to reveal that they were Latin For some reason, that seemed very odd — a Latin inscription in Mr. Tankersley's house.

Caradad rested her elbow on the back of the chair and studied the motto. She never had gotten beyond Caesar and that was a long time ago. Liber—that meant book—and that next word . . .

She sprang away with a start; some one was in that chair!

A man's face peered around the chair back. "Hello," he observed mildly.

"Oh," Caradad responded faintly. "Please excuse me! I—I didn't know anybody . . ."

"Quite all right. This isn't my room." There was the sound of a book being closed and the occupant of the chair got to his feet. A tall, broad-shouldered man. Not far from Terry's size, Caradad noticed, but heavier. His face was too much in the shadow to see it clearly, but his voice was pleasant enough, rather crisp and decisive.

"Awfully sorry I startled you. Reading and didn't know you were around until I felt you against my chair. Where did you come from? That brawl in the next room?"

"Why, yes." Caradad still was breathing rapidly from fright. "I happened to see the books through the door and came in to look at them."

"Well, if you're a bibliophile, you'll find much in here that's worth your while. This collection is in strange hands, but there's one redeeming feature . . ." He broke off with a dry chuckle. "Nick is good to his friends. We have the enjoyment without the bother of investing. But I say, sit down a minute, so long as you're here. You're not missing anything next door."

As he spoke, the tall man swung the wing chair about invitingly and drew up another for himself. Caradad hesitated a moment, then accepted the preferred seat. At least, here was some one to talk to. And, now, she had a better chance to see her new acquaintance. Her first conclusion was that he was not one of the party guests, for he was wearing a dark business suit.

A nice-looking man, she decided. Dark hair and heavy brows; he wore a closely clipped mustache and his lower jaw was decidedly square. His hands were interesting, lean and muscular. The fingers of one were tapping restlessly on his knee, suggesting a pent-up energy in the strong body.

"You're fond of books?"

Caradad realized that it was not a very original thing to say, but the man was staring at her so closely tht it made her a trifle uncomfortable.

"Oh, yes," he returned promptly. "Not exactly a connoisseur, you know. Fact is, I dabble in too many things—hobbies. That's about all. I'm cursed with a lot of spare time when I'm around town. I'd rather lost track of Nick's newest acquisitions and dropped in after dinner to browse. I'd quite forgotten he was entertaining until I heard that furor out there. There's one good thing about this retreat, however. None of his addle-pated friends ever come in. Didn't mean that, really. Sorry."

"I know what you mean," Caradad smiled. "That's one reason I slipped in here for a minute . . ."

"One reason, eh? I could think of several others, now that I've had a good look at you. You're not the run-of-mine variety one usually encounters in this place. My name's John Severance. Mind telling me who you are? And why?"

Caradad's brown eyes widened a trifle at John Severance's unusual method of seeking an introduction, the wording he employed.

"My name," she told him quietly, "is Caradad Vardell."

"An unusual name," he mused. "Caradad. May I ask who gave it to you?"

"My father."

"More unusual still. What does he do?"

"My father is not living. But he was a ranchman—in Oklahoma."

"He may have been a ranchman, but there was romance in his make-up. When I asked 'why' you were, I think I was trying to find an explanation for your being a guest of Nick Tankersley. I understand now. He mentioned giving a party in honor of a young woman from some far-off place. You're the guest of honor beyond doubt. And here you are hiding away from the merry din. I wish it were good form to be inquisitive."

"I don't mind telling you." Caradad was slightly surprised at her own frankness. There was something rather comfortable about Mr. Severance, in spite of his abrupt manner. "I came to Chicago on more or less of a sightseeing tour. Then I found a friend, the son of an old neighbor of ours. He's Mr. Cantine, a friend of Mr. Tankersley. They wanted to give a little party for me and decided to have it here. I should be out there with them, of course."

"But you found you didn't have much in common with the crowd and slipped away for a minute. Did you say your friend's name was Cantine?"

"Yes. Terry Cantine? Do you know him."

"I rather believe I do. Sells bonds and things of that sort to his friends."

"I believe he does handle securities," Caradad observed with a touch of formality. She was not certain she quite liked the way Mr. Severance said "friends." But the latter seemed not to notice her restraint.

"And a very good business, they say. A bit overcrowded with young hopefuls, but there's always room for the aggressive type. Your friend appears to belong in that category."

"He always has been very ambitious," she defended.

"You know," John Severance remarked, changing the subject in his characteristic fashion, "you are entirely different from the women one expects to find here. I can understand now, of course."

"You mean that I look like—Oklahoma," Caradad suggested, for want of a better word. She smiled as she said it.

"Precisely. You look fresh and unspoiled, without the jaded air most of those women have." He jerked his dark head in the direction of the other room. "Tell me about yourself. What sort of things interest you What do you do? What were you going to hunt up here in Chicago?" He stretched his long legs out comfortably.

"Why, there isn't much to tell," Caradad evaded. "I've always lived at home. Since my father died I have had to look after things connected with his estate. They's all pretty well attended to now and this is a vacation for me—sort of. There are ever so many things I want to see here, the museums and galleries—the galleries mainly, I think."

"I wouldn't wonder if you appreciate pictures, much better than some of us who have the collections under our noses all the time. I imagine you may be the same way about out-of-doors things, riding, shooting, and all that. They're probably on old story to you."

"No, indeed!" Caradad insisted. "I've never done much hunting, but I've ridden all my life. I love it."

"So? But a bridle path would be pretty tame. However, if you have any yearnings to get a horse under you while you're here, I wish you'd let me know. I've several fair animals of my own, though no bucking broncbos to make you feel at home."

"That sounds very tempting," Caradad admitted.

"We'll do it. Where are you staying?"

"At the Hotel Rushmore for the present."

Red Cross to Accept Funds For Relief In War Zone.

The Richland County chapter of the Red Cross laid plans today to accept contributions for Red Cross work in the Chinese war zones among civilians, following President Roosevelt's suggestion that America send $1,000 000 to China for relief work.

The president said in his letter to Admiral Cary T Grayson, active head of the American Red Cross, that aid had been offered to both the Japanese and the Chinese but that Japan had replied their resources were adequate to deal with the situation

Roy R. Spetka, chairman of the Richland county chapter, said today that no quota would be set up and no solicitations made, but that volunteer contributions would be accepted.

REV. ROLLER, FULLER SPEAK FOR TWO CLUBS

Round Table, Travelers Hear Talks On Youth Movement, Fingerprinting At Joint Session At Women's Club Tuesday.

REV. D. N. Roller and E. C. Fuller, director of the bureau of identification in Mansfield, were guest speakers at the joint meeting yesterday of the Round Table club and the Traveler's club. The members attended a 1:30 dessert luncheon at the Women's Club at which Mrs. Edwin Mansfield and Mrs. D. J. Meese presided. Mrs. Harry Finefrock and Miss Margaret West were hostesses.

The youth movement, which consists of various round table discussions, lectures, and private conferences, was discussed by Rev. Roller. He pointed out that it was the hope of the Mansfield group to make these youth organizations national in scope.

Rev. Roller feels that the program, which is being sponsored by the city churches and their pastors, will do much in preventing juvenile delinquency and will aid in curbing criminal tendencies in the adolescent.

In his discussion, Mr. Fuller emphasized the value of having the entire population fingerprinted for the purpose of identification. He explained the method of fingerprinting and discussed the uses and advantages of the system. He also told about the Washington bureau. Mrs. C. C. Wagner, vice president of the Round Table club, was in charge of the meeting and presented the speakers

The next meeting of the Round Table club will be a dessert luncheon at 1:30 p. m at the Women's Club Feb 7 with Mrs. A. T. Hedges as hostess. Mrs. John W. Cook will be hostess to the Travelers' club when it next meets Feb. 8.

Gray Net

GRAY NET is chosen for this formal dress worn by Gertrude Michael film actress. It was designed by Edith Head, Hollywood dressmaker.

It stresses a flared skirt, with the flare reflected in the peplum which hangs from the hips below a wide girdle of the net at a high waistline. Bodice and shoulders are draped, and a rhinestone clip gives the jeweled touch.

BEDS GO GAY IN COLOR

Color crops up in bed linens, blankets and spreads more richly this year than ever before, according to House Beautiful. Not gaudily, but in deep patrician tones which touch with graciousness any bedroom they enter. In blankets, the tendency is toward dark single tones and those in lighter shades often have contrasting borders and initials in the dark tones. In addition there are the new plaids which seem particularly fitting for masculine rooms.

All-wool, soft, fluffy textures are what you should look for. In these there is warmth without the weight which leaves you crushed when morning comes.

In sheets and pillow slips, also, color is becoming a stronger note. There are floral motifs in colors, too—pastels this time—and initials boldly stand forth in strong shades

In bath towels, color is equally important. Stripes appear prominently, narrow and wide The solid color lines have been extended to take in new hues. The newest is burgundy. Finally, look for strong colors or, if your taste still runs toward the lighter ones, see that they are enlivened with bold touches of color.

THAT PAINT JOB

If you are planning to do some painting in and around the house by way of getting things spick and span for a special time, here are a few tips which will help to insure a satisfactory job:

Study the directions on the can and follow them!

Buy a good grade paint. For small pieces of work the cost between good paint and inferior grades is slight and the difference in lasting qualities is enormous!

Be sure you buy a paint for the purpose it is intended Don't try a floor paint for your furniture, or wall paint for the cellar game room!

Don't try painting over waxed or glossy surfaces. Remove the gloss or the paint will not adhere!

There's a trick to applying varnish. Flow it on Don't try to stroke it back and forth or you will spoil the smooth finish you are after.

Look out for wet surfaces. "Dry to touch" isn't dry enough. The wood surface or the paint coating must be dry straight through.

Don't let the cans of paint stand where the temperature drops below 40 degrees Freezing will ruin the paint!

SOAK YOUR BRUSHES

As soon as you are through using paint brushes, soak them in gasoline or turpentine for an hour. Then wipe them with a soft cloth and wash them well in warm water and soap suds Wipe each one dry and wrap it in a cloth or paper.

New Styles For Spring

The unusual details of the suit shown are indicative of the new styles for spring. This is a softly-tailored suit in dusty rose tweed in the background of which is discernible flecks of pastel greens, blues and beige. When Mrs. Paul Hensler, 23 Dunbilt court, was hostess to members of the Notre Dame Study club last night Mrs. Glen Mavey read a paper on "Silver Trumpets Calling" by Lucille Borden

This paper was a discussion of the peasant life of Russia and a contrast to the five year plan Mrs. Macey presented facts which gave a clear picture of the activities of the peasant class, their mode of living and conditions before the revolution. She then contrasted this with modern Russia and the efforts of the Soviet to organize and regiment the people

Tea was served at the close of the meeting with Mrs. J. C. O'Donnell pouring. Mrs. C J. Wehinger, Dunbilt court, will be hostess to the club Feb. 1.

Have Faith In Wife, Man Is Advised

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Will you please help me if you can?

"I am married, and love my wife more than anything else in the world. I have been out of work for five months and I can't stand it much longer.

"My wife works in a lunchroom and talks to every fellow who comes in, and when we go out together she talks to fellows who come into the lunchroom. Can a wife do that and still care for her husband at the same time?

"I tried to take my life before we were married because they tried everything they could to stop us from going out. And the last time because my wife was going to leave me We lost our rooms when I lost my job, and came to stay with my mother until I can get work again. My wife seems to like it here and we have a nice room and my mother and she get along good."

"I take my wife out and we have good times together. Whenever I can make some money I get her things and give her every cent I have. I love my wife so, will you please let me know what I can do to make her happy all the time? I have almost got myself sick worrying about her if she cares about me. Please tell me what I can do.

The very best thing you can do, my dear and poor old chap, is to keep calm and have faith that all is well. Your wife's job depends more or less upon her being friendly and pleasant to the people who patronize the lunchroom, so you need not get excited over that little problem. And if she remembers them when she is out with you in a social way, that too flatters them and makes them more eager to eat in the lunchroom where that nice, friendly young woman works. Her personality is part of her business equipment, and need not interfere at all with her love for you. So try not to let it worry you

Excessive jealousy may bother her so much that she will think less of you, so your best course is to cultivate confidence in yourself. This is hard to do. I know, when you are out of work, but you are earning some money. I judge from your letter, and you know you are a good worker and will have a job again before long.

You are very highly strung. I judge, and sensitive. I wish you would try hard to get the idea of suicide out of your mind. Some men take to drink when things trouble them—and you try to take your own life. It shows your mind is ill, and please don't be offended when I say that. It can be cured. I wish you could have a strong, sensible friend to help you over this hard time and show you how to get hold of yourself.

Do you go to church? There are ministers and priests who are wonderful at helping people who need them in such crises. Another thing you can do is to read your Bible — the psalms, especially. Read them and learn them by heart.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

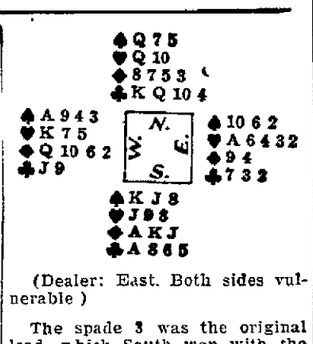
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKING SURE LOSERS

IN PLAYING for a no trump game it is almost invariably better, if you have other suits safely stopped, to take the sure losers at the top of some suit for the purpose of building lower cards, than to try an early finesse in another suit. If your finesse fails, you may not then have enough rounds left to set up your winning trick in the other suit.

South opened the bidding on this deal, after a pass by East, with 1-No Trump. North bid 2-No Trump and South 3-No Trump.

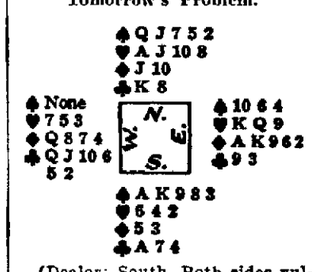


(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable)

The spade 3 was the original lead, which South won with the J He then ran four rounds of clubs and finessed the diamond J, which lost to West's Q. A second spade was returned, which South won. The diamonds A and K were cashed and a heart led. West won with the K and cashed two spades, setting the contract, as another heart trick was lost.

As the spade suit furnished no great danger, South should have immediately attempted to set up one heart trick. This, together with two spade tricks, two diamonds and four clubs, would have given him game, without having to resort to finesse in the diamond suit.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

How should South play to make 4-Spades after the lead of the club Q?

Give Eyes Bath Often For Beauty

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty."

ACCORDING TO Rochelle Hudson, screen actress, there are many women whose eyes look tired and old. Such appearance, she says, usually is due to neglect and carelessness.

Rochelle has a very pretty pair of orbs, and what adds immeasurably to their loveliness is their clearness and brilliance. Clearness and brightness can make even small eyes appear attractive, you know, but they are not acquired by neglect. The eyes must be given faithful care. It only takes but a few minutes of a woman's time, but her whole appearance profits by it.

Of course, the safest way to brighten the eyes is to make your physical health perfect. For it is youthful vitality that puts sparkle in the eyes. But cleanliness is also essential for preserving their limpid clearness.

Need Help to Keep Clean.

In this world of smoke and grime, it is well-nigh impossible to expect the eyes to retain their clarity without some assistance on your part. A large amount of dust and grime accumulate in them each day. Some of the particles are so minute that they do not cause actual discomfort. They lodge themselves under the eyelids, and you may be totally unaware of their presence. But unless these tiny particles are washed away every evening, the eyes may become red, inflamed and bloodshot. Indeed, serious infections may result from a grain of dust that has become lodged in the eye.

An eyewash, to be safe and effective, must be free from all germs. It should be very mild and soothing to the eyes. There are a number of eyewashes now on the market for cleansing and brightening the yes, and some of them are really excellent. Be sure you use only one that is nationally recognized as being reliable and effective, however.

Of course, in a pinch, there is always that old standby, the boric acid solution. This is prepared simply by dissolving one teaspoon of boric acid in a glass of tepid, sterilized water. The best way to administer this eyewash is with an eyecup which fits right over the eye, although another method is merely to swab the eyes with cotton soaked in the solution.

In addition to proper cleansing, if the eyes are to look young and radiant, the tissues that surround them must be given sufficient nourishment. Strain, worry, fatigue, exposure and facial mannerisms all draw up the skin into a thousand wrinkles. If the skin is supple and well nourished, the wrinkles will disappear when the face is in repose.

An omelet in which six eggs are used will be much lighter if three-fourths of a teaspoon of cream of tartar is used in preparing it.

If the closet in which fur coats are hung is dry, keep a dish of water in closet. Furs should always be put in cold storage when not in use.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I effaced myself as quickly as possible after I had warned Mary and Noel that daylight, the scheduled time of his departure for New Hampshire, was at hand.

"Goodby and good luck, Noel!" I said, extending my hand. "I'll take good care of Mary, never fear."

He took the hand—and me—into a warm embrace.

"I know she'll be safe with you," you blessed woman," he said, kissing me. Then I rushed back into the kitchen, and kept Jim and Katie there while Mary went out to the side veranda in front of which Jim had parked Noel's car with its new clutch, the payment for which I knew Noel counted as nothing when weighed against the extra day he had had with his beautiful young wife.

There was no baggage to be packed—Noel had brought only a small handbag—and I meant that no alien presence should disturb that last farewell. But mindful of Mary's possible need of me, I went to the open window nearest the veranda, and listened intently for the sound of the starting motor which should herald the moment of Noel's departure.

At last it came, and with an injunction to Katie and Jim to stay in the kitchen until they should hear me go upstairs unless I should summon them, I hurried out to the veranda just in time to see Mary waving a handkerchief and smiling at Noel as he put the car into first and started down the driveway.

"Don't look around!" she called, "It's bad luck!" and then she put her whole voice into a clarion call: "Good hunting, Sweetheart!"

She turned at that toward the door, and I knew that superstition at watching him out of sight was having its way with her. At that moment she would have observed any fetish, no matter how ridiculous.

She had not seen me, but my arms were ready for her as she stumbled over the doorstep, her eyes blinded by the tears she had kept back so bravely. She would have fallen prone if I had not caught her in a strong, firm clasp. In the convulsive clasp of her hands and in the choking, tearing sobs which suddenly burst from her, I read the magnitude of the grief which was hers.

Takes Her Upstairs.

I did not attempt to move, nor did I speak until the first force of her sobbing had spent itself I simply stood rigidly erect, holding her tightly against me. But when the tearing sobs lessened and softened, I spoke tenderly but firmly.

"Come Darling! Come upstairs with me. I'm going to put you to bed for a bit."

Her voice was frantic when she found breath to answer.

"You're not going to leave me alone!" she shrilled.

"No, indeed," I soothed her. "I shall not leave you until you go to sleep."

"But I don't want to go to sleep" she protested chokingly. "I'd only wake up to all this misery and loneliness. Oh Papa Veritzen!; how I'd like to feel your neck muscles between my fingers right now!"

Must Rest First.

"If you don't want to go to sleep, you shan't go to sleep," I promised her, as I drew her with me up the stairs. "You shall do whatever you wish after you have rested a bit, and I have given you something to calm those tortured nerves of yours. But I must insist that you lie down first of all."

"I'll do whatever you say," she said "Just so you don't leave me."

"If I leave you it will be only long enough to get a glass of water," I told her. But when I had undressed her and put her into bed, I made the pretext of getting a glass of water an excuse to race down the hall and tap on the door of Miss Whitlock's room.

THEATER

SINCE his radio broadcasts, Frank Morgan has received four proposals of marriage from feminine fans—the first in his career. One Miami widow offered him a trip around the world as a honeymoon present. . . . Lola Lane, who plays a leading role in "Hollywood Hotel," at the Ohio, recently replaced Glenda Farrell in the "Torchy Blane" series at Warners. During a scene with Paul Kelly she was told to sock him and make it look real. She let go such a wallop that Kelly had to be treated at the studio hospital. His lip was split by the blow. . . . Phil Regan becomes a night club singer at the Versailles in New York in the near future. . . . Lanny Ross lost a camera in France months ago and an unidentified finder just returned it in the mail . . . with all the film developed.

"She's Got Everything."

Bringing the blond stars—Ann Sothern and Gene Raymond—to the screen for the fifth time, the film, "She's Got Everything," opens at the Ohio theater Thursday for a two-day run. The theme deals with Miss Sothern's efforts to pay off her father's creditors, after his death reveals not only that she is without a cent, but that furnishings of her Long Island home, and even the clothes she wears, have not been paid for. When the creditors are persuaded by one of their members to back the girl in a campaign to marry a wealthy Latin, things begin to happen. Her refusal to go through with the plan and her determination to get a job and pay off the bills, lead her into unforeseen complications — especially when she goes to work for Raymond. Also in the cast are Billy Gilbert, Parkyakarkus and Victor Moore. "Hollywood Hotel" plays through today.

Opera Star in Film.

Lily Pons, famous grand opera star, comes to the screen again in the musicale, "Hitting A New High," with Jack Oakie, Edward Everett Horton, Eric Blore and John Howard in the principal supporting roles. The plot deals with the romance between Miss Pons and Howard, and with the ingenious scheme in which Oakie seeks to have her "discovered" (she is already a night club singer) as an opera star, by his publicity-seeking employer, Horton. These two themes are interwoven with the story in a funny fashion, and they lead to surprising results. The picture opens at the Madison theater today.

Huston-Chatterton Picture.

Walter Huston and Ruth Chatterton top the cast of the screen version of Sinclair Lewis' famous novel, "Dodsworth," playing through Thursday at the Majestic theater. Huston has the title role of Samuel Dodsworth, the easy-going American husband and Miss Chatterton has the part of Fran, the pretty, frivolous, selfish wife whom he adores The couple sail on a vacation in Europe and there the wife becomes involved in a romance with a young German. The film follows their activities as they attempt to straighten out the affair. The British screen stars, Conrad Veidt and Vivien Leigh, are co-starred in the second film, "Dark Journey."

Irene Dunne at Ritz.

Irene Dunne as Magnolia Hawks, plays the leading role in the 1936 version of "Show Boat," at the Ritz theater. The film, with Allen Jenkins playing opposite her, follows the life of Magnolia from early life through her marriage to Jenkins, their separation and finally the scene in the theater when her daughter is making her stage debut. Charles Winninger, Helen Morgan, Paul Robeson, Helen Westley and Donald Cook are in the cast. The No. 2 feature is "Mystery Range," starring Tom Tyler. The western revolves around Tyler's fight to save a ranch belonging to a young girl.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, January 27.

While there are signs of important plans on a very ambitious scale, yet there may be sinister or tricky angles to this day. Beware of plots and snares, especially in connection with speculation or other perilous ventures. Likewise, be cautious in dealing with strangers or in strange places. There is a menace of gossip or slander or other dangers. Use diplomacy and precaution in untried situations.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of very important projects, but these may be subject to fraud, deception or other sinister angles. Be wary with strangers or in unfamiliar places. Speculation and untried business affairs are not encouraged. Finances are rather shaky. Private matters may also give concern.

A child born on this day may have rather inflated views and expansive ideas, which may not get it anywhere, as it may incline to methods which may keep it constantly in "hot water."

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1938.

It does seem odd, how tough some public servants can get with the taxpayers who employ them.

It's all in how you look at it—so a South Dakota motorist came to Mansfield to avoid the winter weather.

It will be kept in mind by the treasury department, of course, that those new nickels must be the same size as the old ones—so that they will fit slot machines.

Better Fire Protection Needed.

REPORT of Fire Chief Seeburger directs attention to Mansfield's immediate need for better protection against fires, not only to secure a reduction in present high insurance rates but also to guard against the attendant losses of a big fire in the business or industrial sections of the city.

It has been generally agreed that there is urgent need for a considerable revamping of Mansfield's water distribution system and it is noted that the fire chief recommends replacement of all four-inch mains with larger lines.

While provision is being made for a new No. 2 fire station, no definite steps have yet been taken to build and equip a station in the southwest part of the city, which has been under discussion for the past half dozen years.

It is also recognized as poor economy to retain in service obsolete or wornout equipment that cannot be depended on in an emergency.

The fact that there were seventy fewer fires in Mansfield in 1937 than in 1936 reflects creditably on education of citizens in fire prevention, but the circumstance that the average loss per fire showed an increase tends to indicate inadequacy of fire-fighting personnal and equipment.

There is no more important subject on which public interest in Mansfield can be concentrated at this time than that of water supply and improvement of fire-fighting facilities.

To Prepare for a Better Job.

THE trade extension program in adult education, now being organized for a second course to start early next month, offers an opportunity which a number of ambitious Mansfield men will doubtless find valuable in preparing for a job, or for advancement.

This course, in which the Mansfield public schools co-operate with the state board of vocational training, offers instruction and training intended to supplement experience gained in actual work and to give workers opportunity to increase their knowledge of various vocations, including machine shop practice, mechanical drawing, blue print reading, electrical theory, automotive mechanics, practical mathematics and English to meet requirements of some kinds of shop work.

Not infrequently men employed in some branch of shop work, or a trade, realize a deficiency in education on some subject required in order to hold a job or to advance to a better one.

The courses for which registrations are now being received, will extend through twelve weeks, with classes from 7 to 9, two evenings each week. It is recommended to workers who believe they should learn more about the job in which they are now employed, or the one which they hope to be able to get.

Increase In Domestic Thrift.

NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK came and went almost unnoticed. That might indicate that the nation isn't particularly interested in thrift just now, or that it is already so thrifty that it doesn't need to dedicate any special period to the subject.

The purpose of an annual Thrift Week, according to the president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, is "to encourage a better understanding of personal economics at all times." In fact in that case, there ought to be fifty-two Thrift Weeks a year—and for some people there seem to be.

A development of the times—possibly a result of past Thrift Weeks—is the spreading interest in personal and family budgeting. Banks that offer a budget adviser for patrons find her job becoming more and more important as experienced housewives, young brides, business women, and many other people come in for help with their "personal economics."

This doesn't mean that there are no more thriftless families and individuals, but only that common sense in this matter is growing. Some folks find they can get a lot more value for their income, large or small, if they handle it according to an intelligent plan.

World's Safest Highways.

AMERICAN highways, or American motorists, or both, seem to have been slandered. Our roads are the safest in the world, maintains C. H. Purcell, president of the American Road Builders. And his figures seem to say almost as much for our drivers.

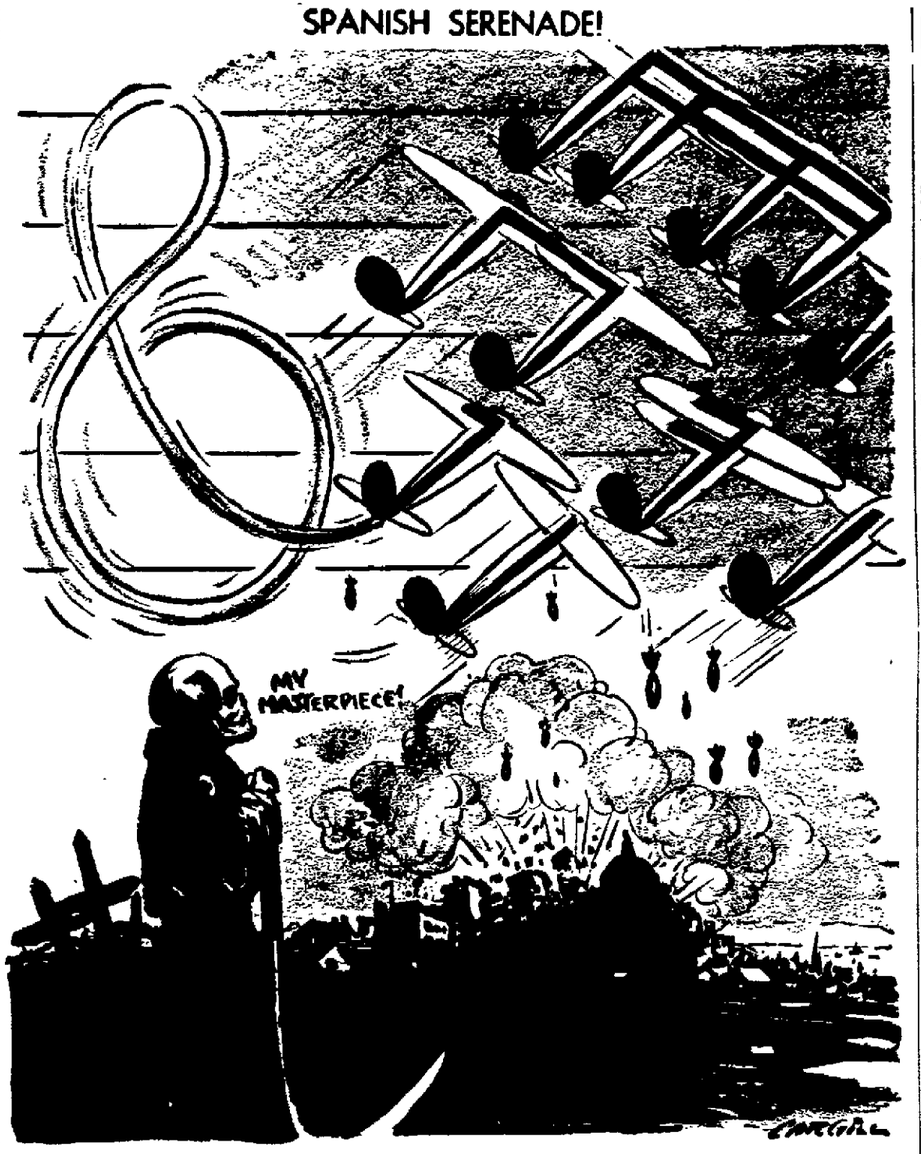
He quotes figures from the National Safety council which show a lower death rate, per 10,000 motor vehicles, for only four foreign countries—Canada, New Zealand, South Africa and Denmark. He believes that on a mileage basis, even those nations would rate worse than we do.

The automobile death rate in Germany, which brags so much of the safety of its super-highways, he finds is four times as high as ours per thousand miles driven. We have so many more fatalities than other nations because we do so much more driving.

"These examples are not quoted to minimize the seriousness of the traffic safety problem that confronts us here," he adds, "but to enable calmer judgment to prevail in reviewing conditions as they actually exist. We are realists. We know that too many accidents occur on our highways, and we are continuing in our determination to reduce them. But the roads are not inherently unsafe." Nor, he seems to suggest, are the motorists, on the whole.

With all the dams being constructed over the country, there is little likelihood of Ex-Ambassador Dodd ever having one of them named after him.

The Popeye influence is plainly discernible in the expressed preference of those New York youngsters for spinach.



Primary Tests May Determine Coalition Course

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Although Senator Josiah W. Bailey (North Carolina Democrat) denies that his recent "Address to the American People" looks toward the "formation of a (political) bloc on coalition," Capitol Hill's congressional folk are in very general agreement that that is what, practically, it calls for.

Parenthetically:

It was not exclusively Senator Bailey's "declaration of principles."

In drafting it the Carolinian had the assistance of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Michigan Republican) and of several other solons of both parties. However, Bailey inspired it initially and undoubtedly dictated most of it.

IT'S ANTI-NEW DEAL

Without going into details (the screed is too long for that), suffice it to say the document emphatically is an anti-New Deal pronunciamento.

To be sure, Bailey explains, "it cannot be called an attack on the president."

Nevertheless, if President Roosevelt is a New Dealer, as he has proclaimed himself to be, it is hard to interpret that address otherwise than as anti-administrationistic.

In short, it hints at a partisan realignment.

RESHUFFLING DUE

Such a reshuffling has seemed to be impending for a long time—ever since Theodore Roosevelt's day, indeed. But, somehow, it has not eventuated.

Of course the United States ought to have a conservative party and a liberal one, instead of a Republican-Democratic split, which does not mean much—since each party is partly one way and partly the other, requiring respective break-ups in membership and corresponding readjustment.

I would not say that statesmen like Senators Bailey (Democratic) and Vandenberg (Republican) are exactly conservatives, or that President Roosevelt and Senator Borah nominally on opposite sides of the partisan fence) are red radicals.

Still, Bailey, Vandenberg and Senator Copeland, for instance, certainly are nearer together than President Roosevelt and Senators Borah and Norris are in sympathy with them.

AN EXAMPLE

The coming spring primaries should begin to clarify the situation.

Take Senator Bailey's state of North Carolina.

The Republicans usually do not bother to nominate congressional candidates there, knowing that a Republican can't be elected anyway.

But, for nomination, an anti-New Deal Democrat can oppose a pro-New Deal Democrat. The "anti" assuredly will receive a substantial number of Democratic primary votes. He will get such Republican votes as there are, likewise. Thus he may beat his Democratic "pro" opponent. Does that make him a Democrat or a Republican? On paper, he is a Democrat. But, in fact, what is he?

The north mainly is Republican—anyway, anti-New Deal, like Democratic Senator Copeland.

STEWART'S VIEW

Many Democrats can get anti-New Deal nominations.

Some few pro-New Deal Republicans will get nominations on what theoretically are Democratic tickets.

It will depend a lot on how the recession proceeds.

If business picks up, Senator Bailey's "Address to the American People" will fall flat.

If business improves the New Deal will win at the primaries, hands down.

PRIMARIES ARE TEST

If business DOES NOT improve pretty promptly, the New Deal will be in a seriously bad hole. Primaries are due in April, May and June.

Elections not until November.

The primaries will be the test—two or three months hence; not in the fall.

SPEED SEEN ESSENTIAL

It all depends—

The New Deal has got to make good mighty speedily — within two or three months.

Or it's up against Fascism or Nazi-ism or some such thing.

Listen, World!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

Don't Try to Test Your Own Life

ELLA LOU'S thirty-nine next month—and she's still wondering IF SHE IS IN LOVE.

All her life Ella Lou has dreamed of Love and Marriage . . . frankly admits now she's an "Old-fashioned girl who wants a home more than anything else." And several gentlemen have seemed quite willing to furnish her heart's desire. But—Ella Lou has never been sure. Yes, they were nice men. Really wonderful men. And she liked them. Liked them very much.

BUT WAS IT LOVE?

How could a girl really tell if it was truly Love?

Over and over—year after year—Ella Lou has asked herself that question.

What did she expect Love to be? How did she expect Love to feel? Ella Lou couldn't tell. But she'd always believed that Love, when it came, would be Perfectly Wonderful. So marvelous! So sweet! So beautiful that it took all the hurt and fear and fullness out of life and forever kept you just thrilled n' thrilled n' THRILLED.

But hadn't Ella Lou felt like that with those nice, these really wonderful men? No—that was just the trouble. SHE HADN'T. She'd liked them, particularly Dick, ever so much. She'd found herself thinking of them, particularly Dick, every little while. She'd longed to sew on their buttons and cook their biscuits, particularly Dick's, and stand waiting for them when they came home on rainy nights. But—

WAS THAT LOVE?

COULD SHE BE SURE THAT WAS LOVE?

And Ella Lou's heart sank as she asked. For she felt she knew the answer . . . if she were REALLY in love, she'd never wonder at all. She'd be too excited . . . just swept off her feet, like those marvelous beauties you read about or see on screen. THEY never wondered whether they were in love. THEY KNEW!

Poor Ella Lou . . . waiting and wondering and losing life and love while she waits . . . how silly she looks when we put her in print! But how common she is in real life . . . how near to all of us!

How many hours you and I have wasted, how much joy and pride you and I have passed up, waiting and wondering, trying to be sure . . . TESTING OUR LIVES BY SOME IMAGINARY STANDARD OF FEELING.

There is no such standard. There is no set reaction which determines love or adventure. No two of us ever feel alike about anything on earth. Love may come with flame and ecstacy to one . . . and with common place content to another. Opportunity may cover one man with goose pimples and cause another to simply shift his wad of gum. You never can tell . . . and you shouldn't try.

This business of trying to feel like everyone else—it's the bunk. Take yourself as you are, and your life as it comes—and stop waiting for omens and signs.

And this applies to more than personal romance and adventure. We must learn to depend on our own THOUGHTS, our own DECISIONS, in abstract problems as well as in private, emotional tangles.

You complain that life is dull . . . that it no longer holds adventures and surprises. But can't you see why? LIFE IS DULL BECAUSE YOU NEVER DARE TO BE DIFFERENT. LIFE HAS NO ADVENTURES BECAUSE YOU NEVER DARE TO BE CURIOUS, NEVER DREAM OF REBELLING.

Stop waiting until you think or feel like somebody else. DARE RIGHT NOW TO FEEL AND THINK FOR YOURSELF AND ACCEPT YOUR OWN FINDINGS.

Stop trying to be an echo—

PUT YOUR BETS ON EXHIBIT A!

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

Scarcity of Well-Trained Workers.

Millions of men walk the streets looking for jobs—and yet there are employers who search in vain for certain types of men.

That is the story told by more than one plant operator.

Why?

Lack of training. Lack of a craft. Lack of a trade. And—lack of an open door to training.

For this, the responsibility lies with employers, unions and the government.

Both government and employers ought to have been training men all through the depression. The government could well have voted a subsidy to business for this purpose. That would have been less expensive than the "made work" that followed later. And it would have meant less taxation for employers.

As for the craft unions—they have "protected" themselves too well. They have closed the door of opportunity to youth in all too many instances. Without the influx of youth, a craft becomes stale, mediocre and eventually collapses.

PROBLEM UNSOLVED

In the meantime, the unemployment problem remains unsolved. Endless conferences have been held—but there has been no real action except a decision to "make work"—or "prime the pump"—again.

Thus this letter from William Owen, a frequent contributor to this column and a resident of Washington, is of interest:

"I am inclosing two bills which approach the unemployment problem from different angles. I think they may interest you.

"The first one (H. R. 1,620) was introduced by Mr. Boykin, a conservative congressman from Alabama. It is based on a plan which was suggested about four years ago by Albert Dean, then president of the General Motors Holding corporation. The Dean plan was that the government should furnish the money to start a revolving insurance fund for unemployed workers. (The sum mentioned in this bill is $500,000,000.)

"Under that plan, business would be divided into industrial classifications, in which the average hours of the employes would be calculated. These averages would control the amount to be paid out.

"The plan would operate through the comparison of two moving averages:

"1. The average hours of employment of all workers, of the same class, for the previous ten years.

"2. The hours of employment for each individual worker during the preceding month.

"Then, when his monthly average dropped below the ten-year average, the worker would have his normal pay supplemented from the central insurance fund. This insurance fund would be started by the government, but would be kept up by taxing employers who worked their men more than the average number of hours. This is the plan which will probably be supported by business.

"It is based on the 'pump priming' idea, with the government being asked to put up the first $500,000,000. After that funds would be suppied by taxing those concerns which worked their men longer than the average number of hours. However, with ten million unemployed, new funds would have to come in quickly."

A PROGRESSIVE PLAN

Then, Mr. Owen speaks of the second plan:

"The second one (H. R. 7,325) was introduced by Mr. Maverick, a progressive congressman from Texas. It is based on a plan which you have frequently mentioned in your columns. Under it, our country's industry would be organized as a systematic whole, with a central planning board over all, and separate planning boards over each industry.

"The duties of those boards would be to plan ahead the amount of goods to be produced and to allot to each individual concern its separate quota.

"All concerns would pay a processing tax, but those concerns which made good on their quota would have this tax returned.

"The government would guarantee those concerns which produce their quotas against loss.

"This plan is supported by the liberals.

"This is the same plan which your column has repeatedly talked about for over two years, except that the latter suggested that the money taken in through taxes should be used to support the unemployed."

(It may be remarked this column talked about that plan because Mr. Owen wrote so many able letters concerning it.)

Health Advice

Keep Hands and Nails Clean.

IMMACULATE FINGERNAILS and clean hands have always been factors in determining the social standing of the individual. But this sort of cleanlines is far more important for another reason; it is based on sound principles of sanitation.

In ancient China, the long-pointed fingernails signified high rank of birth. It is interesting to learn that in Egypt and other oriental countries dyed fingernails set royalty apart from the commoners. These things have quite a different significance now, haven't they? But proper care of the fingernails and hands is a sign of good breeding and of an appreciation that cleanliness is essential for good health.

Gross Negligence.

Habitual and constant lack of cleanliness is due to gross negligence. This is particularly true in relation to the hands and fingernails. Neglect of this simple health precaution often leads to serious infections and the spread of contagious diseases.

An individual may have clean hands and yet permit his fingernails to be in "deep mourning." He would be surprised if he knew the number of micro-organisms which would be revealed were this accumulated dirt examined under a microscope.

The necessity of keeping the hands and nails clean is of vital importance. Before beginning an operation the surgeon carefully scrubs his hands and thoroughly cleans the nails.

Our hands come in contact with dust and germ-laden objects. From them or by them these micro-organisms can be carried to the nose, mouth or face. It is not the dirt in itself that is harmful, but the bacteria that are found in the dirt.

Menace to Health.

The rim of black beneath the fingernails is more than an indication of careless habits. It is a positive menace to health and may be the means of transmitting disease. Casual hand washing is not sufficient to rid the hands of bacteria. The hands must be scrubbed with a well-soaped brush and then rinsed in running water. The nails should be cleansed with a blunt-edged orange stick. This care of the hands should always be taken before meals.

This is a matter of importance to young children. They play in the dirt and unknowingly carry germs to the mouth. These organisms are often harmless for the adult, but may prove dangerous to the young child.

The youngster should be taught the importance of clean hands at an early age. Discourage him from merely dipping the hands in the water and imagining that they have been washed. Awards may be given to encourage clean hands and fingernails.

How To Teach Your Wife To Drive.

1. BE POLITE.
2. Pretend that you're an automobile salesman and you are trying to sell the car to her.
3. Remind her that "statistics show that women are better or safer automobile drivers than men."
4. Tell her that driving a car is simple. Much easier than rearing a child, cooking a meal, growing a garden, running a house, managing a husband.
5. Be polite.
6. Don't try to explain the differential or the carburetor to her. You're rather vague about those things, too.
7. Remind her that the other fellow, in another car, is just as anxious to avoid hitting her as she is to avoid him.
8. Emphasize that the car has brakes.
9. Recall what a dub you were when you learned to drive.
10. Tell her everything slowly, over and over again.
11. Be polite.
12. Don't let her quit when she has a little accident.
13. Remember again, that you are a salesman trying to sell her a car.
14. After she knows all the theory of the thing, you might try leaving home for a week. When you come back she will admit she has scraped a fender and went 50 miles an hour the day before.
15. And after that there's nothing more for you to do.

One of life's minor triumphs is teaching another human being anything successfully. One of life's minor illusions is that no husband can teach his wife to drive an automobile; and that no husband should attempt it. . . . It IS an illusion, because every husband can, and should, teach his wife to drive. If he doesn't, he proves his timidity, and no husband should admit so openly that he's afraid of a little thing like that.

Timely Editorial

Inviting Prohibition.

Many now engaged in the drink traffic have not yet realized that under repeal the traffic is on probation. Some in the industry—like the distiller who urges temperance in a current series of ads are aware of the possibilities ahead. But others operate as if they expected this day's business to be their last.

On the evidence of anyone who gets around town, it can be said that some of our drinking spots are less tolerable in many of their aspects than was the saloon or even the speakeasy. The saloon was run by men for men. Its bartenders and waiters were not women. Our licensed premises were not hunting grounds for free-lance females. If the saloon was evil, it was an evil uncomplicated by sex, and music and dancing and a tawdry floor show and the rest of the current concomitants. As to the blind pig, it exacted some semblance of order because its very existence depended on its inconspicuousness.

The saloon took its tone from its management, and this is just as true of the beer garden; which induces us to feel that the traffic today is full of characters who have no place in it.—Detroit News.

FATE OF THE WICKED: Evil shall slay the wicked: and they that hate the righteous shall be desolate.—Psalms 34:21.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

A RECENT historian refers to Fifth Avenue's Magnificent Mile. A phrasing for that strip between the Empire and the Plaza. Or with more geographical clarity from 34th street on the south to 59th on the north. The term is alliterative but not apt.

The truth is, Fifth avenue, save for the several blocks of Rockefeller Center has lost gobs of its pristine pomp of the days when not a single shop or store bore outside sign. And Millionaire's Row was a citadel for the rich and aristocratic creme de la creme.

What Fifth avenue has left of former glory chiefly are churches. Such as St. Patrick's and St. Thomas's. Plus several of the finest department stores. But the bon ton botiques are gradually moving over to Park between 46th street and 60th.

Four enormous five-and-tens are already flaunting their red facades on Fifth. And for a time a flock of spurious linen shops gave the street a cheap john look. Madison avenue, too, has attracted a carriage trade with its spray of Rue de la Paix shopping smartness.

The House of Morgan, famed banking firm, at the corner of Broad and Wall, occupies the costliest real estate site in the world. Built of imported marble, it is but two stories, a pigmy among surrounding giants. There is scarcely an hour during the day that one or several do not detach from the sidewalk flow to finger the pock-marked slab of marble near the entrance. A momento of the terrifying noon-day explosion that blew many innocents to kingdom come and provided a bombing mystery several detectives are still working upon full time.

The elder J. P. Morgan somehow fascinated me in early New York days more than other magnificos. I had heard that at times he lunched behind a screen in the rear of Dewey's on Fulton and I went there often and dawdled over a piece of pie in hopes of a glimpse. Then one exciting late afternoon, with the star reporters out of the office, a call came for the press to stop in at Morgan's office. I was sent and expected a touch of wish fulfillment. But instead a solemn gentleman in ledger-ruled trousers, black braided coat and clerkly air greeted us and handed out a curt mimeographed communique of about 20 words. A year or so later, however, I saw the great capitalist. I was on the 42d street corner of Broadway watching the opera crowds depart. Morgan in silk hat and giant fur collared coat flashed by in his limousine.

Centre Market Place is one of the tiny lost streets down-town. It is a hub-bub of commerce spang behind police headquarters and used almost exclusively by members of the force. Just a block long, it is lined with a jumble of shops that cater to the professional needs of cops. Such as handcuffs, whistles, heavy shoes, regulation blue shirts and other regalia of the flatties. A number of the merchants are retired members of the force, adding to their pension checks and keeping in touch with the boys.

It is astonishing how many will stir themselves to attend the early morning lineup of prisoners at police headquarters in Chambers street. One may see there such celebrities as Theodore Dreiser, H. G. Wells, Ame. Alma Claybergh, Mary Pickford and such. For the regulars there are often laughs, but to the casual visitors it is a wince. Many prisoners are old offenders and actually seem to enjoy a little wise cracking with the police under the spotlight.

On two different newspapers I covered police headquarters and was continually depressed by the dry, sad aroma of lysol that envelops every prison. Arnold Bennett once wrote of a sudden dejection that afflicted him when he saw anything pink. He finally attributed it to the pink colored alms houses of England. Similarly even today when I smell lysol or that cloying disinfectant so noticeable in the Bowery lodging houses, I am plunged into despondency. On the other hand no odor is so rejuvenating as the scent of clover. A few whiffs and I'm actually spry!
